ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The single most important element in the updating and revision of a price and reference guide is reader input. From dealers and collectors, located in every state and in nearly every country, we receive suggestions, additions and corrections for The Official Price Guide to Records. Every single piece of data we acquire from readers is carefully reviewed, with all the appropriate and usable information utilized in a future printing of this guide – though not necessarily in the very next edition.

As enthusiastically as we encourage your contributions, let us suggest that when you mail or fax to us you will type or print your name clearly, on both the envelope and its contents. It is as frustrating for us to receive a packet of information, and not be able to credit the sender, as it probably is for the sender to not see his or her name in the Acknowledgments. For those with fairly common names, using a middle name or initial is a plus.

Specifically for this edition, we are grateful for the information and assistance supplied by those whose names appear below. To these good folks, our deepest gratitude is extended. The amount of data and investment of time varied, but without each and every one of them this book and its value would have been something less than it is.

THE OFFICIAL® PRICE GUIDE TO

Records

2001

INTRODUCTION

How Prices Are Determined

Record values shown in The Official Price Guide to Records are averaged using information derived from a number of reliable, proven sources. Most influential in arriving at current values is our long-established "marked copy" review program. Dozens of the world's most active dealers and collectors receive a copy of the most recent edition in which, throughout the year, they track and mark changing prices. When it's time to prepare a revised edition, those marked copies are returned to us for analysis and processing.

Besides the annotated books, we receive hundreds of letters and e-mails each year from folks like yourself, suggesting corrections and/or additions to the guide.

Printed marketplace publications and online Internet sales are also extremely important sources of pricing information. Through these, hobbyists buy, sell, and trade music collectibles. We painstakingly review those periodicals and sites, carefully comparing prices being asked to those shown in our most recent edition. Keep in mind, however, that while asking prices are considered, greater weight is given actual sales prices.

If active trading indicates prices in the guide need to be increased or decreased, those changes are made. With our annual publishing schedule, it is never long before the corrected data appear in print.

What makes this step in the pricing process so vital is that nothing more verifiably illustrates the out-of-print record marketplace than everyday sales lists placed by dealers from around the country and around the globe.

Also of great assistance to price tracking are the individual sales catalogs and auction results lists we routinely receive from dealers. Auction results are especially useful, so keep 'em coming.

Record prices, as with most collectibles, can vary drastically from one area of the country to another. Having reviewers and annotators in every state – as well as in Europe, Asia, and beyond – enables us to present a realistic average of the highest and lowest current trading prices for an identically graded copy of each record.

Other sources of consequential information include: private set sale and auction lists, record convention trading, personal visits with collectors and to retail locations around the country, and hundreds of hours on the telephone with key advisors.

Although the record marketplace information in this edition was believed accurate at press time, it is ever subject to market changes. At any time, major bulk discoveries, quantity dumps, sudden increases brought about by an artist's death, overnight stardom that creates a greater demand for earlier material, and other such events and trends can easily affect scarcity and demand. With our constant research, keeping track of the day-to-day changes and discoveries taking place in the fascinating world of record collecting is a relatively simple and ongoing procedure.

To ensure the greatest possible accuracy, our prices are averaged from data culled from all of the aforementioned sources.

When Prices Don't Change

Some prices go unchanged year after year because their values simply do not fluctuate beyond the range given. Others, however, should be shifted and are not. This is because no one bothers to advise us of those market changes. With over one million records priced in The Official Price Guide to Records we cannot keep track of all of them without lots of help from those on the front lines.

Please do not keep such news a secret and don't wait for someone else to do it. Let us know of corrections and updates as soon as possible.

How You Can Help

We can never get too much input or have too many reviewers. We wholeheartedly encourage you to submit anything and everything you feel would be useful in building a better record guide. The quantity of information is not a factor – no amount is too little or too much.

The extensive list of names always found in the Acknowledgments chapter indicates the development of our board of advisors. We want you to join the team.

When preparing additions for Records please try to list records in generally the same format as is used in the guide: artist's name, label, selection number, title, year of release (if known), and price range. Since our data base is stored alphabetically by artist, there is no need to reference Records book page numbers.

Please be very careful to submit information accurately, exactly as it appears on the label. Incomplete copying, especially of artist names, is the reason for embarrassing duplications in the guide. If the credit reads "Winston and the Aardvarks," list it that way. Do not simply tell us it's by the Aardvarks! This oversight can easily create duplicate listings – one under "W" and another under "A." Thank you.

Wax Fax and e-mail

Two frequently used methods of forwarding data to us are fax and e-mail. For your convenience, we have a dedicated fax line: (360) 385-6572. Use it to easily and instantly transmit additions, corrections, price updates, and suggestions. Be sure to include (legibly) your name, address, and phone number so we can acknowledge your contribution and, if necessary, contact you.

Our e-mail address is jpo@olympus.net. Add us to your e-mail Address Book. Again, remember to provide your full name separately since Internet letters normally transmit only the sender's e-mail address.

If you help, we want to credit you properly. Just make sure we have – and can read – the information with which to do it.

Send all additions, corrections, and suggestions to:

About the Format

Our arrangement of listings is the most logical way to present so much information in a single volume. Now in use for 16 years, our format is a proven success that offers unlimited potential for expansion.

The structure of The Official Price Guide to Records allows us to include all of the following in one multi-purpose guidebook: 7-inch singles, both 33 rpm and 45 rpm; 78 rpm singles; 12-inch singles, both 33 and 45 rpm; 33 and 45 rpm EPs (extended plays); 78 rpm albums, 10-inch and 12-inch LPs (long plays); picture sleeves; promotional issues, picture discs, and anything else.

Once you locate an artist's section, their records are listed alphabetically by LABEL. Individual listings for each label appear in numerical order. In many instances, listings that are numerical by selection number are also chronological in sequence of release, but there are times when this is not the case. This format is especially helpful when using the guide along with an artist or label discography. Since the year of release is also provided for each listing, the reader knows immediately the pattern being followed by the label at the time.

Once familiar with the format, you'll find it easy and functional. See the "Sample" page for more information. New users should take time to familiarize themselves with the array. Reading all of the introductory pages should answer most reader questions.

The documenting and pricing of so many recordings is made possible by selectively economizing on space; listing individual titles when necessary but not when it's possible to group a number of equally valuable releases together on one line. Still, any time it is necessary to have a separate listing on a record in order to clearly and accurately present the information, we will do it. When a specific selection number is noted, whether listed as an exception or not, the title will also be given for easy identification.

One troubling facet of our approach is the artist who had one or more records of a value indicated for a particular label or series, but who also had one release (or more) that is a notable exception. Every effort has been made to separately document such exceptions, however, due to the sheer bulk of information herein, some may be missed. If you know of any, let us know about them.

You will find that the expansion of an artist's section, moving more toward individual rather than grouped listings, will be as commonplace in subsequent volumes of this series as with this edition. There are hundreds of artists with revised sections in this volume, listing many more individual titles and selection numbers than ever before. With some performers, it is, or perhaps soon will be, necessary to list every single record separately.

The ever-increasing number of pages in the guide are but one indication of how many artists' sections are expanded with individual title listings, over previous editions. Every year thousands of records are listed and priced individually that previously were not.

The decision to expand a section is partly based on reader input. Many examples of individual pricing in this edition can be directly attributed to a letter or call suggesting the need to do so.

Non-Rock Guidelines

Since some parameters were necessary to decide which non-rock performers to include in Records, the following guideline is used.

If a non-rock artist had either a single or album on the Billboard charts (1950 – present), all vinyl recordings known to us by that artist will be found in the guide. This allows for the most popular performers of country, western, jazz, personality, easy listening or other music style to be included, without trying to incorporate every record ever made into one book (although many want us to provide exactly that).

Though these are the parameters, exceptions are not uncommon. You will find many in this edition who had no charted recordings, but were chosen because of their overall significance in the collectors' marketplace. There are others included simply because we received requests from readers to add them. If there is someone you feel needs to be in this guide, who is not at this time, please write with that suggestion. We are always listening to your suggestions.

Remember, we're only talking about records and artists that are not particularly in demand here! If you have a collectible record not currently listed, we want it in the guide. What it sounds like or whether or not it charted anywhere is of no importance.

Grading and the Price Range

The pricing shown in this edition represents the price range for NEAR-MINT condition copies. The value range allows for the countless variables that affect record pricing. Often, the range will widen as the dollar amount increases, making a $500 to $1,000 range as logical as a $5.00 to $10.00 range.

One standardized system of record grading, used and endorsed by Osborne Enterprises as well as buyers and sellers worldwide, is as follows:

MINT: A mint item must be absolutely perfect. Nothing less can be honestly described as mint. Even brand new purchases can easily be flawed in some manner and not qualify as mint. To allow for tiny blemishes, the highest grade used in our record guide series is near-mint. An absolutely pristine mint, or still sealed, item may carry a slight premium above the near-mint range shown in this guide.

VERY GOOD: Records in very good condition should have a minimum of visual or audible imperfections, which should not detract much from your enjoyment of owning them. This grade is halfway between good and near-mint.

GOOD: Practically speaking, the grade of good means that the item may be good enough to fill a gap in your collection until a better copy becomes available. Good condition merchandise will show definite signs of wear and tear, probably evidencing that no protective care was given the item. Even so, records in good condition should play all the way through without skipping.

Most older records are going to be in something less than near-mint, or "excellent" condition. It is very important to use the near-mint price range in this guide only as a starting point in record appraising. Be honest about actual condition. Apply the same standards to the records you trade or sell as you would want one from whom you were buying to observe. Visual grading may be unreliable. Accurate grading may require playing the record (play-grading).

Use the following formula to determine values on lesser condition copies:

For VERY GOOD condition, figure about 25% to 50% of the near-mint price range given in this guide.

With many of the older pieces that cannot be found in near-mint, VG or VG+ may be the highest grade available. This significantly narrows the gap between VG and the near-mint range.

For GOOD condition, figure about 10% to 25% of the near-mint price range given in this guide.

It will surprise no one to learn that the gulch between GOOD and MINT is becoming a canyon. The drift toward widening the grading gap that began about 10 years ago shows no signs of slowing. To keep pace with this phenomenon, changes have been made in the guide to reflect the ever-increasing premiums being paid for mint condition items.

We know of no industry observers who forecast a reversal of this trend.

The 10-Point Grading System

Another recommended grading system is based on the often-used 10-point scale. Many feel that grading with the 10 point system allows for a more precise description of records that are in less than mint condition. Instead of vague terms, such as VG++ and M-- (is "very good plus, plus" the same as "mint minus, minus"?), assigning a specific number provides a more accurate classification of condition.

Most of the records you are likely to buy or sell will no doubt be graded somewhere between 5 and 10.

After using this system ourselves for a few years, we are inclined to agree that it is more precise. Customers who have purchased records from us have, without exception, been pleased with this way of grading.

The following table shows how the 10-point system equates with the more established terms:

10: MINT
9: NEAR-MINT
8: Better than VG but below NM
7: VERY GOOD
6: Better than G but below VG
5: GOOD
4: Better than POOR but below G
3: POOR
2: Really trashed
1: It hurts to think about it

The Bottom Line

All the price guides and reporting of previous sales in the world won't change the fundamental fact that true value is nothing more than what one person is willing to accept and what another is prepared to pay. Actual value is based on scarcity and demand. It has always been that way and always will be.

A recording – or anything for that matter – can be 50 or 100 years old, but if no one wants it, the actual value will certainly be minimal. Just because something is old does not necessarily make it valuable. Someone has to want it!

On the other hand, a recent release, perhaps just weeks old, can have exceptionally high value if it has already become scarce and is by an artist whose following has created a demand. A record does not have to be old to be valuable.

Record Types Defined

With the inconsistent language used by the record companies in describing an EP or an LP, we've determined that a language guideline of some kind is needed in order to compile a useful record guide.

Some labels call a 10-inch album an "EP" if it has something less than the prescribed number of tracks found on their LPs. Others call an EP a "Little LP." A few companies have even created special names, associated only with their own label, for the basic record formats.

Having carefully analyzed all of this, we have adopted the following classifications of record configurations, which consistently categorize all types, sizes, and speeds in one section or another:

Singles: 78 rpm are those that play at 78 rpm. Though 78s are almost always 10-inch discs, a few 7-inch 78 rpm singles have been made.

Singles: 7-Inch can be either 45 rpm or 33⅓ (always referred to simply as "33") speed singles. If a 7-inch single has more than one track on either side we consider it an EP.

Singles are priced strictly as a disc, with a separate section devoted to picture sleeves (which are often traded separately). If we know that picture sleeves exist for a given artist, a separate grouping will appear for the label, price, and applicable year of release. Should you know of picture sleeves not documented in this edition, please advise us accordingly.

There have been a few 5- and 6-inch discs manufactured, but for the sake of keeping singles with singles (and since we don't want to establish a "Singles: 5-inch" category), such curios will be tossed in with the 7-inch singles, with an explanatory note.

EPs: 7-Inch are 7-inch discs that have more than one track on one or both sides. Even if labeled an "EP" by the manufacturer, if it's pressed on a 10, or 12-inch disc it's an LP in our book. Unless so noted, all EPs are presumed to be accompanied by their original covers, in a condition about equal to the disc. An appropriate adjustment in value should be made to compensate for any differences in this area. Exceptions, such as EPs with paper sleeves or no sleeve at all, are designated as such when known.

LPs: 10/12-Inch is self-explanatory. The only possible confusion that might exist here is with 12-inch singles. If it's 10- or 12-inches in diameter, and labeled, priced, and marketed as a 12-inch single (Maxi-Single, etc.), then that's where you'll find it in this guide, regardless of its speed. Often, 12-inch singles will have a 12-inch die-cut cardboard sleeve or jacket; but many have covers that are exactly like LP jackets, with photos of the artist, etc. Unless so noted, all LPs are presumed to be accompanied by their original covers, in a condition about equal to the disc. An appropriate adjustment in value should be made to compensate for any differences in this area.

Other record type headings used such as Picture Sleeves, Promotional Singles, etc., should be clear.

Country Music Records

Now a permanent part of The Official Price Guide to Records is the 2,300 or so of America's all-time top-selling country and western artists – from the mid-'20s to the present. Among this varied gathering, you'll find all of the Country Music Hall of Fame legends shoulder to shoulder with long-forgotten artists who managed just one insignificant hit.

Qualifying for inclusion in Records is anyone who managed at one time or another to hit the Billboard C&W chart with a vinyl disc, from 1944 to the present. Our chart source for this is Joel Whitburn's [Billboard] Top Country Singles 1944-1993. (Record Research, PO Box 200, Menomonee Falls WI 53052.)

Since Billboard magazine didn't begin publishing separate country music charts until 1944, country music artists who made the pop charts before 1944 are also included.

Knowing this, the reader will understand why the "first charted" reference for some of country music's pioneers (Roy Acuff, Bob Wills, Carter Family, etc.) indicates "P&R" (Pop & Rock, but signifying only "Pop" in this usage) rather than "C&W."

Other two letter abbreviations used include: "LP" (Album chart), "R&B" (Rhythm & Blues/Soul chart), and "D&D" (Dance & Disco chart).

At the other extreme of the time frame – the 1990s – we have encountered a quandary of a different sort. Which recent releases exist on vinyl?

While many collectors have a "who cares" attitude regarding '90s releases, fanciers of certain performers usually are concerned about which singles and albums are manufactured on vinyl, in addition to compact discs. Often they are rarer than ones 20 years old, simply because vinyl production itself was rare in the '90s.

Reliable sources report that a great many country singles are still being made on vinyl, primarily for jukebox use. We are also told of many hip-hop and rap vinyl issues in the '90s. Still, knowing with certainty which ones are and which are not on vinyl can be impossible.

We have opted to maintain our usual conservative approach, listing only those vinyl discs that we have seen or have been told of by our correspondents. We encourage those of you in the trenches of collecting to submit specifics about other recent vinyl releases.

Pricewise, if the most recent year for which we indicate vinyl singles is, say, 1996, it is safe to assume the same price range for any later singles.

Though we do not anticipate an attempt in the future to include every country or western recording ever made, we did at least want the complete recorded output of every artist appearing on Billboard's C&W charts – no matter how brief or insignificant their chart success.

In addition to those charted country artists, you will find a random assortment of other country-related performers. They may be here because someone submitted the information or because they are somehow significant to the proceedings. Their inclusion should not be viewed as a desire on our part to have every non-charted C&W artist in history in the guide.

Cross-Referencing and Multiple Artists' Recordings

The cross-referencing in The Official Price Guide to Records should provide the easiest possible method of discovering other sections of the book where a particular artist is featured or appears in any capacity.

We've tried to hold to a minimum unexplained cross-references, opting to concentrate more on those cross-references for which the reader can effortlessly understand the rationalization. Minimized is the unnecessary duplication of cross-references. For example, it is not necessary to list every group in which Eric Clapton played, under each and every one of those sections. What we've done is simply indicate "Also see Eric Clapton," where you will find a complete cross-referencing to all other sections where he appears.

Some artists have several sections, one right after the other, because they were involved in different duets and/or compilation releases. In such instances, the primary artist (whose section begins first) is not cross-referenced after each and every subsequent section, but only after the last section wherein that artist is involved. This in effect blocks the beginning and the end of releases pertaining to that performer. If you don't find the listing you're searching for right away, remember to check the sections that follow, as the artist may have been joined by someone else on that recording causing it to appear in a separate section.

Cross-references in bold typeface are charted artists; those in normal typeface did not chart.

Artist headings and resultant cross-referencing appear in two different formats in this guide. For example:

LEWIS, Jerry Lee, Carl Perkins & Johnny Cash

Listings under this type heading are those wherein the artists perform together. Often these releases will also include solo tracks by one or all of the performers in addition to those on which they collaborate.

LEWIS, Jerry Lee / Carl Perkins / Johnny Cash

This heading, with names separated by a slash, indicates there are selections on separate tracks by each of the named artists, but they do not perform together.

ISLEY BROTHERS & DAVE "BABY" CORTEZ

This heading, with all names in upper case letters and no slash, indicates the artists perform together.

ISLEY BROTHERS / Brooklyn Bridge

This heading, with names after a slash that are in upper and lower case, indicates artists that perform separately – usually each being heard on one side of the disc.

Though exceptions do exist, the general parameter set for such releases is four different performers or less. Compilations containing five or more individual performers are deemed as Various Artists issues, to be dealt with in a separate publication.

Whenever more than one act is featured on a record, cross-references appear under all of the other artists on the disc, who have a section of their own in this edition, directing the reader to the location of the listing in question. If you're looking up a record with a different artist on each side, and you don't find it under one artist, be sure to try looking for the flip-side artist.

Not all releases containing more than one artist are given separate sections. In some cases it makes more sense to include such records in the primary section for the most important artist. We will rarely create separate sections for multiple artist discs when the other performers on the issue do not have a section of their own in this edition.

To illustrate this point, Hank Williams Jr. had several duet issues with Lois Johnson; Gene Ammons shared an LP with Sonny Stitt. Even though Johnson and Stitt do not have individual sections in this book (they didn't make the Billboard pop singles or LPs charts), such recordings may be important to collectors of Williams and Ammons. For that reason, they are included in their respective artist's section.

On the other hand, a duet by Brenda Lee and Willie Nelson requires a separate section, since either or both may be of interest to the researcher. Also, both are individually pop-charted artists. There are a few isolated exceptions to this policy, simply because every section in this edition was separately prepared and customized in whatever manner necessary to provide the user with the most usable information.

Promotional Issues

Separate documenting and pricing of promotional issues is, in most cases, unnecessary. Because most of the records issued during the primary four decades covered in this guide were simultaneously pressed for promotional purposes, a separate listing of them would theoretically double the size of an already large book.

Rather, we've chosen to list promotional copies separately when we have the knowledge that an alternate price (either higher or lower) consistently is asked for them. For the most part, promos of everyday releases will fall into the same range – usually toward the high end – given for store stock copies. Some may stretch the range slightly, but not enough to warrant separate pricing. Premiums may be paid for promos that have different (longer, shorter, differently mixed, etc.) versions of tunes, even though the artist may not be particularly hot in the collecting marketplace.

When identified as a "Promotional issue," we are usually describing a record with a special promotional ("Not For Sale," "Dee Jay Copy," etc.) label or sleeve, and not a designate promo. Designate promos are identical to commercial releases, except they have been rubber or mechanically stamped, stickered, written on by hand, or in some way altered to accommodate their use for promotional purposes. There are very few designate promos listed in this edition, and those that are (such as in the Elvis Presley section) are clearly identified as such.

Colored Vinyl Pressings

Records known to exist on both black vinyl and colored vinyl (vinyl is the term used regardless of whether it's polystyrene or vinyl) are listed separately since there is usually a value difference. However, some colored vinyl releases were never pressed on black vinyl, and since there is no way to have the record other than on colored vinyl, it may or may not be specifically noted as being on colored vinyl.

Because the true color of some colored vinyl pressings may be a judgment call, we once used "colored vinyl" to indicate discs that are not standard black vinyl.

We are gradually replacing "colored" with the specific color used. If you know the exact color of any records still shown in the guide as "colored," please send us that information.

Foreign Releases

Originally, Records listed only U.S. releases. Now, there are many exceptions. A handful of records that were widely distributed in the United States or sold via widespread U.S. advertising, even though manufactured outside the country, are included. Such anomalies would appear only in the more sophisticated sections of the guide.

There are also numerous Canadian releases included, with more being added to each new edition. The collectors' market for out-of-print Canadian records is mostly a U.S. market. The trading of rare Canadian discs between Canadian collectors is not quite as widespread as those instances that involve a U.S. buyer or seller. Yet it is from Canadian collectors that we receive most of our information on those releases, and we expect to have more listed in future editions.

Thanks to annual essays by Peter McCullough, and input from a few other helpful Canadian collectors, our knowledge of Canadian records is broadening.

Beyond North America, there are millions of overseas releases with collector value to fans in those countries as well as to stateside collectors. Unfortunately, the tremendous volume of material and the variances in pricing make it impossible to comprehensively document and price imports.

Bootlegs and Counterfeits

Bootleg and counterfeit records are not priced in this guide, though a few are cited, along with information on how to distinguish them from an original.

For the record, a bootleg recording is one illegally manufactured, usually containing material not previously available in a legitimate form. Often, with the serious collector in mind, a boot will package previously issued tracks that have achieved some degree of value or scarcity. If the material is easily available, legally, then there would be no gain for the bootlegger.

The counterfeit record is one manufactured as close as possible in sound and appearance to the source disc from which it was inspired. Not all counterfeits were created to fool an unsuspecting buyer into thinking he or she was buying an authentic issue, but some were. Many were designated in some way, such as a slight marking or variance, so as not to allow them to be confused with originals. Such a fake record primarily exists to fill a gap in the collector's file until the real thing comes along.

With both bootleg and with counterfeit records, the appropriate and deserving recipients of royalties are, of course, denied remuneration for their works.

Since most of the world's valuable records have been counterfeited, it is always a good idea to consult with an expert when there is any doubt. The trained eye can usually spot a fake.

This is not to say unauthorized releases are excluded from the book. There are many legitimate releases that are unauthorized by one entity or another; records that are neither bootleg nor counterfeit. Unauthorized does not necessarily mean illegal.

Group Names and Personnel

One problem that we'll never completely solve involves the many instances where groups using the exact same name are lumped together with other groups who are completely different. Whenever known to be different, these groups are given separate sections; however, there are times when we simply do not know. If you can shed any light in this area, we'd love to hear from you. Thanks to readers, many such groups have been sorted since our last edition.

The listing sequence for artists using the same name is chronological. Thus, the ABC group, Silk, who had a release in 1969, is listed ahead of the Philadelphia International group, Silk, that first recorded in 1979.

As often as not, there will have been group members that have come and gone over the years. Reflecting this turnover in our listing of members' names may cause some confusion, when the reader sees 12 different members shown for a group named the Five Satins. We've tried, whenever possible, to list the original line-up first, followed by later members. Also, the lead singer is usually listed first. We welcome additional information on group members from readers. One of the most reliable sources of this data is the LP covers, which often list members. If you can fill in the members' names on any groups where we don't list that information, we'll see that it gets into our next edition.

When group members' names are given, there is a likelihood that not all of the members named appear on all of the releases documented. It is also possible that not all of the members named ever recorded with all of the other members shown at the same time.

When names are given for a solo performer, those named are likely noteworthy sidemen.

As more and more group members are named in future editions, there will be added cross-referencing to reflect the constant shuffle of performers from one group to another.

Parenthetical Notes

Some of the information that may be found in parentheses following the artist heading has already been covered. However, other uses of this space include:

- Complete artist and group or artist and band names. Some artists were shown as being with one group on a few releases, solo on some, and with yet another group on other issues. We've tried to present the information the way, or ways, that it is shown on the actual record label. When encased in quote marks, it means that this particular wording or credit variation is exactly as shown on the label.
- Variations of spelling or names for the same artist. With some artists, it's convenient to have everything in one section; however, when it is illogical to combine listings, perhaps because the performer was popular under more than one name (such as Johnny Cymbal and Derek), you'll find individual sections for each name. Cross-references will be used to help you locate things easily. Having "Kenneth Rogers" in parentheses is not intended to mean that Kenneth is Kenny's real name. Rather, we're letting you know that on at least one of his records he is credited as Kenneth Rogers instead of Kenny Rogers. Same goes for Tony Perkins, who may also be credited as "Anthony Perkins." We may at times provide real names of artists, but only when we feel they need to be given. While we have no desire to give the real names of everyone who has recorded under a pseudonym, there are times when you do need this information. This is especially true when they have also recorded under their real name or when more than one person has recorded under the same pseudonym. To help sort things out, we will, when known, give you the real name of someone who has recorded under a nom de guerre, such as Guitar Slim (a.k.a. Johnny Winter).
- Names of guest performers who may or may not be credited on the actual label, but who we feel you should know were involved in some of the records listed in that section.

Oldies Labels and Reissues

An effort has been made to include many "oldies" or reissue records in the guide. Though many reissues of this type are of no value beyond their current retail cost, some are. Look at some of the early RCA Victor Gold Standard Series Elvis Presley releases, for example. Once in a blue moon a tune will turn up in true stereo on a reissue label that was previously hard to find in stereo. Otherwise, it's just our desire to report comprehensively on all artists that prompted the listing of reissues.

The main reason we've included these reissues is to eliminate confusion, especially among younger collectors. Often, they'll discover a hit tune on a label like Lana or Lost-Nite, and think it's an original release predating the label that had the hit.

If there are reissues numbered as part of a label's standard release series, and not documented in this edition, please tell us about them.

Using This Guide: Some Additional Points

• A few of the more prolific labels with lengthy names are abbreviated in this guide. They are:

ABC-PAR ..... ABC-Paramount
GNP ..... GNP/Crescendo
MFSL ..... Mobile Fidelity Sound Lab
RCA ..... RCA Victor
SSS/SUN ..... Shelby Singleton's Sun
(Sometimes shown as SSS INT'L.)
20TH FOX ..... 20th Century-Fox
U.A. ..... United Artists
W.B. ..... Warner Brothers

Notes: The short-lived (1959) Warner records label is shown as "Warner" ... Excelsior's old United Artist (singular) label is spelled out ... The late-'60s Minnesota label "UA" is not shown with periods, as is United Artists ... Records on the old Memphis Sun label are of course identified simply as "Sun."

The alphabetization in The Official Price Guide to Records makes finding any artist or label easy, but a few guidelines may speed the process along for you:

• Names that are simply letters (and are not intended to be pronounced as a word) are found at the beginning of the listings under each letter of the alphabet (i.e., ABC, AC-DC, GQ, SSQ, etc.). The same rule applies to acronyms (i.e. B.R.A.T.T.S., etc.) and to initialisms (i.e. MFSB, etc.). If a series of letters that stand for a longer name can be pronounced as a word, such as "Bratts," it is an acronym. If not, as with MFSB, it is an initialism. When known, we'll parenthetically tell you what the abbreviation represents.

• Names are listed in the alphabetical order of the first word. This means you'll find Rock Squad before Rocket. Hyphenated words are looked upon as whole words (i.e., Mello-Kings is treated the same as Mellokings). Divided names or names with Spanish articles (i.e., De Vorzon, Del Satins, El Dorados; Las Vegas, Los Lobos, etc.) are alphabetically listed as though they were a one-word name.

• Possessive names precede similarly spelled names that are not possessive. For example, KNIGHT'S would be found before KNIGHTS, regardless of what follows the comma.

• It is flabbergasting to discover how many of the people responsible for crediting bands and groups on record labels have no understanding (or schooling) regarding when to use a possessive apostrophe. This is by far the most frequently found mistake on labels – one which we refuse to blindly copy for our artist headings, lest anyone think that we don't know better. However, for those labels that do credit groups like – to use an actual example – the Capitols (on Gateway) as CAPITOL'S, we will indicate that senseless variation under the artist's heading, in parentheses.

• The articles "A" or "The" have been dropped from group names in this guide even though they may appear on the records as part of the name.

• With record labels, listings appear in 1) alphabetical, 2) numerical, and 3) chronological order. Selection prefixes are generally not used (they make it more difficult to scan the numbers) unless they are necessary for identification. With some artists (Beatles, Elvis, etc.) it is essential at times because of constant reissues.

• Some sections make use of the label prefixes to sort things out, but most use a number series. If the numbers are duplicated by the label, or if any of a variety of confusing similarities exist, we may resort to the prefixes for clarity.

• Regarding 78 rpms. As to which late '50s and early '60s tunes came out on 78s, we cannot safely assume much of anything. If you know of 78s from the end of the 78 rpm era that we do not list, please advise us accordingly. We would be especially happy to learn of charted hits issued after 1957.

• Whenever possible, records priced in the $25.00 to $35.00 range and up are listed individually with label, selection number, and title.

• Anytime we find that the monaural or the stereo issue of a particular record is in need of a separate listing (because there is a price difference for one that is outside the boundaries of the price range of the other), we will gladly provide same. If there is but one listing, this indicates that we have no reason to believe there is much difference in the two forms. A little application of the known variables will help in this area. For example, if the range is $20.00 to $40.00 for a 1960 LP and you know that the stereo issue is in true stereo, it's safe to place the mono at the low end of the range ($20.00 to $30.00) and the stereo at the high end ($30.00 to $40.00). The calculation may be reversed for late '60s and for most electronically reprocessed issues.

• Singles picture sleeves are listed and priced separately, when known. However, EPs and LPs are presumed to have their original covers. Evaluate the condition of EP and LP covers just as critically as you would the discs, making appropriate allowances for flaws.

• We believe the year or years of release given in the far-right column to be accurate. If we don't know the correct year, the column is left blank. In some cases the record may have been released in one year and debuted on the nation's music charts the following year. This is common for year-end issues and explains why you may remember a hit as being from 1966, although we list it as a 1965 release.

• Entering the 21st century created a slight problem with the two digit indication of year of issue: how to know at a glance whether "01" is 1901 or 2001. Since the appropriated column is limited to two digits, we have chosen to underline any years that begin with "20." Thus "02" is 1902, and "02" is 2002.

• If you have delta (Δ) numbers for records we do not have release years for, please send them to us. From those numbers we can usually determine year of issue. Delta numbers are found etched in the record's vinyl trail-off area.

• When multiple years are indicated, such as "64-66," it means the records described on that line spanned the years 1964 through 1966. They may have had one issue in 1964 and another in 1966, or may have had eight releases during those years. It does not mean that we believe the release came out sometime between 1964 and 1966. If the exact year is not known but the decade of release is, then we will provide that ('50s, '60s, '70s, etc.)

• When a selection number series, such as a "4000 series," is shown, it includes numbers 4000 through 4999. If it were meant to indicate only 4000 through 4099, then separate listings would be found for 4100, 4200, etc.

• Goofy as it seems, a few records have been issued with neither artist nor label name shown. You will find this on both singles and albums. These items are filed here by title.

• There are hundreds of multi-disc albums priced in the guide, though some may not be identified as having more than one disc. They are, nevertheless, included in the price range. Feel free to inform us of any unidentified multi-disc sets you catch.

• Mislabeled records are usually no big deal. We constantly hear from folks who think they have struck gold because one of their records has its labels screwed-up in some manner. Either they are reversed, with each side bearing the label intended for the other side, or mislabeled altogether with a label from an entirely different record – perhaps even by a completely different artist. Generally, production errors of this kind do not increase value. They may, in some cases, make the disc even less attractive to a collector. For those very, very few exceptions, the necessary information is already noted in Records.

• While this guide makes no attempt to fully document gospel recordings per se, the wonderful, soulful harmony of groups like the Swan Silvertones and Soul Stirrers make their records popular among rhythm and blues collectors. For that reason they are included. Others are being added on an as requested basis.

• To conserve space, when the same title is listed as both 45 and 78, we may not list the title in both sections if it requires more than one line. You may therefore find only the label name in the 78 section, whereas the complete number and title will be in the 45 section.

• In most cases, we have no specifics regarding which 78s came on both black and colored plastic. Lacking comments to the contrary, all 78s are presumed to be black plastic.

• With all recently added listings, when two (or more) releases came out in the same calendar year, a note reading "First issue" will indicate which came first. Most examples of this occurred with independent labels whose records got picked up by one of the major companies, and issued on their own label. Of course, if the years of release differ from one label to the other there is no need for the note. As we run across them, we will make a similar notation to the older listings in the guide.

• When an artist is shown as making their chart debut on the LP charts, but we list no albums and only singles by them – it is because we have yet to confirm any vinyl albums. If you find vinyl LPs which we do not list, please let us know of them.

• For those who require an even more comprehensive guide for collectibles by either Elvis Presley or the Beatles, we have separate publications available for each that will take you as far into their records and memorabilia as you want to go.

Presley collectors consider The Official Price Guide to Elvis Presley Records & Memorabilia indispensable, whereas Beatles collectors feel the same about The Official Price Guide to Beatles Records & Memorabilia.

Those who want to know all there is to know about collecting and appraising vinyl soundtracks and original casts will want the latest edition of The Official Price Guide to Movie/TV Soundtracks & Original Cast Recordings.

These guides are available at most bookstores, or by mail or online from Jellyroll Productions, Box 255, Port Townsend, WA 98368 (360) 385-1200.

Guidelines for Pricing Records NOT in This Edition

Since it is impossible for us to include every record ever produced, a few guidelines may assist you in evaluating records not found in this edition:

♦ Pop Singles on 45 rpm: Most pop (i.e. non-rock) vocal and instrumental 45s from the '50s are available for under $15.00. From many rock-oriented dealers, pop singles can often be bought for under $10.00. The few exceptions are likely to be folks with charted hits, and those will be found in the guide.

♦ Pop music singles from the '60s to present are seldom going to sell for over $10.00. Many are available for $3.00 to $6.00.

♦ Pop Singles on 78 rpm: Most pop 78s are available for under $10.00. Albums of 78s – usually in a gatefold binder with individual paper sleeves – will vary, but most are in the $10.00 to $30.00 range.

♦ Pop Long Play Albums: From the '50s, 12-inch pop LPs generally are found for under $40.00. Ten-inch LPs may go for up to $75.00. Exceptions, such as pop stars who made rock or jazz records, should be found in this book.

♦ Most pop LPs from the '60s to present can be found for $10.00 to $20.00.

♦ Pop Extended Play Albums: Pop EPs are scarce, as are all EPs, but many are still very reasonable. Most can be found for $10.00 to $20.00, often for even less.

♦ Easy Listening Music: The average easy listening record will be worth about half of the price ranges shown for Pop Music. Some exceptions, with higher values, are LPs by certain lounge music performers and virtually any with female models pictured in exotic settings and in alluring poses on their covers.

♦ Country Music on 45 rpm: Most country music vocal and instrumental 45s from the '50s are available for under $15.00; many for less than $10.00. Obvious exceptions are any that border on rockabilly or country rock. Don't take any country record for granted! Play both sides of every disc, as it is always possible you'll discover a great country rocker.

♦ Country music singles from the '60s to present are seldom going to sell for more than $10.00. Many are available for $4.00 to $6.00.

♦ Country Music on 78 rpm: Most of the country 78s should fall into the $10.00 to $40.00 range. There are, however, many older 78s with prices well into three figures; some even higher.

♦ Country Music Long Play Albums: From the '50s, 12-inch LPs generally are found for around $30.00 to $60.00. Ten-inch LPs may go for from $50 to $100. As always, the range will vary widely depending on the following and collectibility of the artist.

♦ Most country LPs from the '60s to present can be found for $15.00 to $25.00. Again, there are exceptions.

♦ Country Music Extended Play Albums: Very, very few country music EPs were big sellers, which means nearly all are rare. You may find they are in the same price range as the '50s LPs above; some will bring even more than LPs from the same time period.

♦ Jazz Singles on 45 rpm: Most jazz 45s from the '50s are available for under $15.00. The few exceptions are likely to be artists with charted hits, which will be found in the guide.

♦ Jazz singles from the '60s to present are seldom going to sell for more than $10.00. Many are available for $3.00 to $6.00.

♦ Jazz Singles on 78 rpm: Most jazz 78s are available for under $20.00. Until the late '40s or early '50s, an album was a gatefold binder with a number of 78s, usually in individual paper sleeves. Prices on these jazz albums will vary, but most will fall in the $25.00 to $75.00 range.

♦ Jazz Long Play Albums: From the '50s, 12-inch jazz LPs generally are found for under $50 to $100. Ten-inch LPs may go for $75 to $200.

♦ Most jazz LPs from the '60s to present can still be found for $20.00 to $40.00.

♦ Jazz Extended Play Albums: As with country, very few jazz EPs were big sellers. While all are rare, there is not as much demand for them from jazz collectors as for long-play albums. Of course, outside jazz circles there is virtually no demand for them. You may find they are, in general, worth little more than the prices shown above for jazz singles from the same time period.

♦ Comedy, Personality, and Spoken Word Long Play Albums: From the '50s and '60s, 12-inch comedy and personality (not soundtrack or original cast) LPs generally are found for under $20.00 to $40.00.

♦ Most comedy and personality LPs from the '70s to present can be had for $10.00 to $15.00.

♦ If we really wanted to add another 100,000 or so listings (which would make it so thick two volumes would be necessary), we could open the door wider to pre-war blues 78s. For now, the feeling here is "let's not." You will find quite a number of pre-war blues records already in the guide, but that's usually because those artists either charted or continued to record during the post-war years and are included here for that reason.

♦ In summary, there is no way these few paragraphs can constitute a complete price guide for the millions of non-rock records that exist. If such generic generalizations were possible, while guaranteeing unerring accuracy, the entire price guide would be about ten pages. It is the exceptions that make record pricing so complicated and difficult to document. Our goal here is simply to provide a rough idea of the value of recordings that are outside the parameters of the guide.

What to Expect When Selling Your Records to a Dealer

As most know, there is a noteworthy difference between the prices reported in this guide and the prices that one can expect a dealer to pay when buying records for resale. Unless a dealer is buying for a personal collection and without thoughts of resale, he or she is simply not in a position to pay full price. Dealers work on a percentage basis, largely determined by the total dollar investment, quality, and quantity of material offered as well as the financial condition and inventory of the dealer at the time.

Another very important consideration is the length of time it will take the dealer to recover at least the amount of the original investment. The greater the demand for the stock and the better the condition, the quicker the return and therefore the greater the percentage that can be paid. Our experience has shown that, day-in and day-out, most dealers will pay from 25% to 50% of guide prices. And that's assuming they are planning to resell at guide prices. If they traditionally sell below guide, that will be reflected in what they can pay for stock.

If you have records to sell, it would be wise to check with several shops. In doing so you'll begin to get a good idea of the value of your collection to a dealer.

Also, consult the Directory of Buyers and Sellers in this guide for the names of many dealers who not only might be interested in buying, but from whom many collectible records are available for purchase.

Buy and Sell on the Internet

More and more folks are accessing the worldwide web for every conceivable purpose, including buying and selling stuff.

Being able to shop and sell online from one's home is understandably becoming more popular every month. If you have internet access, and have yet to explore electronic buying and selling, you should consider joining the fun.

To meet your online needs, we created Osborne Collectibles. This site offers sellers a surprisingly inexpensive way to offer collectibles to the online world.

For example, a 20-word ad describing one or more items is just two dollars – and it runs until the articles sell!

There is, of course, no charge for browsing. Shoppers select from numerous collectibles categories, then find each item linked directly to its seller. Our role ends there since we play no part in the negotiations – we merely bring buyers and sellers together.

All terms and conditions are self-explanatory. Log on soon:

Concluding Thoughts

The purpose of this guide is to report as accurately as possible the most recent prices asked and paid for records within the area of its coverage. There are two key words here that deserve emphasis: Guide and Report.

We cannot stress enough that this book is only a guide. There always have been and always will be instances of records selling well above and below the prices shown within these pages. These extremes are recognized in the final averaging process; but it's still important to understand that just because we've reported a 30-year-old record as having a $25.00 to $50.00 near-mint value, doesn't mean that a collector of that material should be hesitant to pay $75.00 for it. How badly he or she wants it and how often it's possible to purchase it at any price should be the prime factors considered, not that we last reported it at a lower price. Of course, we'd like to know about sales of this sort so that the next edition can reflect the new pricing information.

We may report a record for $500 to $1,000, which may have been an accurate appraisal at press time. However, before the new edition hits the streets, the price might be $1,000 to $2,000. One or two transactions and six months later it jumps to $2,000 to $4,000. By the time we're close to the following year's guide, this same disc may be considered a bargain at $5,000.

At that point, people may look at the book and wonder how we could show $500 to $1,000 for a $5,000 record. "Our price is a joke," you'll hear. And at that point it is.

As in other areas of living, inflation is an undeniable factor in rapidly rising prices of music collectibles

Another component in the inflation equation, however, is the trend for auctioneers to pick the high end of the price range shown in the guide – and make that the minimum bid.

Anyone wanting that particular record will likely end up paying more than the posted minimum amount.

Then the results get reported to us.

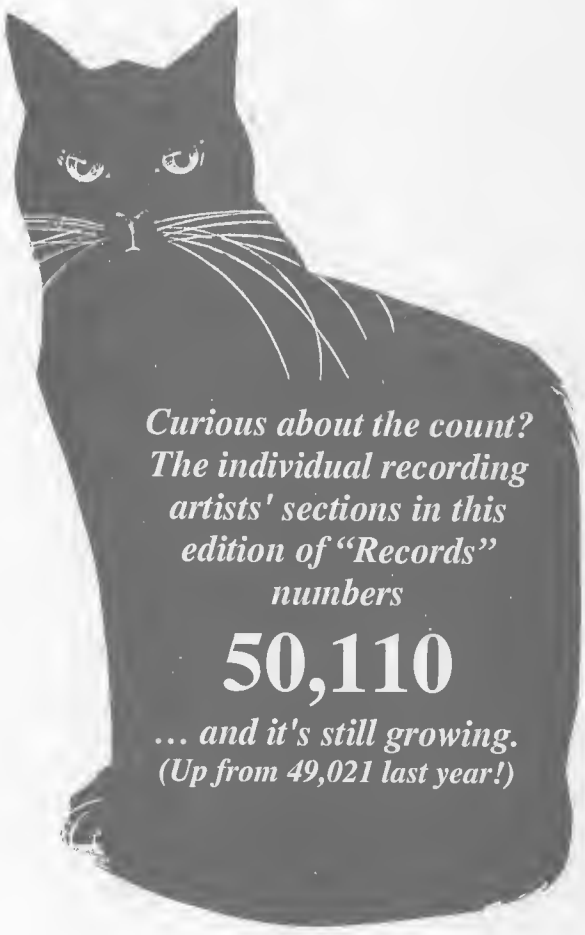
Some dealers send us only the winning bids, others also submit an average of bids received. A few even send along all of the bid amounts they get.

When we learn only of the winning bid, we'll do one of two things:

1. If the item is extremely rare and another sale is unlikely any time soon, we will probably position the winning bid in the middle of our price range. This allows for price movement in either direction.

2. If the item is not so scarce, and other sales are likely, we'll put the winning bid at the high end of the range. This usually provides a realistic price range, since the winning bid is by no means the medium offering – merely the top dollar bid. The average sale price is going to be something less.

Regardless of what the range in our next edition, the cycle begins anew: a new auction is held, using our top price as the new minimum bid.



We mention this truism, not to infer there is anything unethical about the practice, but merely to share one explanation for constantly rising prices.

Meanwhile, please keep in mind that any of the world's more valuable records now have the potential to be worth considerably more in the near future than on the day when work ended on this edition. The key is simply this: is it a money record in the first place? If so, remain open to surprising price increases.

Our objective is to report and reflect record marketplace activity – not to establish prices. For that reason, and if given the choice, we'd prefer to be a bit behind the times rather than ahead. With this guide being regularly revised, it will never be long before the necessary changes are reported within these pages.

We encourage record companies, artist management organizations, talent agencies, publicists, and performers to make certain that we are on the active mailing list for new release information, press releases, bios, publicity photos, and anything pertaining to recordings.

There is an avalanche of helpful information in this guide to aid the collector in determining what is valuable and what may not be worth fooling with, but the wise fan will also keep abreast of current trends and news through the pages of the fanzines and publications devoted to his or her favorite forms of music.

45 RPM SINGLES

A GUIDE TO FIRST PRESSING IDENTIFICATION

By Victor Pearlin and Jerry Osborne

One of the more confusing aspects of record collecting, especially for a newcomer, is identification of 45 rpm pressings – be they first, second or ninth. With some of the better selling releases that seemingly never went out of print, there can be 10 or 20 years worth of releases to try and sort out. Still, it's almost always the first pressing that is of the most interest and the greatest value to collectors.

Except when noted otherwise, all values in this guide are for first pressings. As a general rule, second pressings are valued at about half of first pressings. Third pressings, should there be any, are valued at approximately half of second pressings, etc., etc. The focus of first pressing identification in this guide is on singles only. The subject of long play album label identification has been covered in other books.

The selection numbers shown as points of change in label color and/or design are, in some cases, approximate but, for the most part, accurately researched. The emphasis in this feature is with '50s and early '60s releases though there are exceptions. Largely due to the simultaneous pressing of certain records (usually the better sellers), at different pressing plants, there will always be exceptions to the guidelines presented here. Often, copies pressed in California will carry older labels on East coast releases than we've indicated.

If you should discover records that appear to be an exception to the published information in this edition, please forward the appropriate data to us at Osborne Enterprises. A determination will then be made as to whether our information needs revision or, as is most often the case, you have a pressing plant variation.

There are tens of thousands of labels in this guide that do not appear in this chapter. Generally, this is because they didn't change their label design or color, thus eliminating any possibility of confusion over what's a first pressing and what's a later pressing. Some labels, Columbia for example, eliminated confusion by not repressing singles with their original selection numbers. They often utilized a separate series, such as Columbia's "Hall Of Fame" which had both a different number series as well as a somewhat different label design. Overall, most records dealt with in this edition were never reissued or repressed.

Then there's the case of Fortune, a label with many valuable and important releases, but one whose constant change of colors and label art make it absolutely hopeless to trace for you. If there's a way to identify Fortune pressings with certainty, we'd love to know about it. Even the good folks at Fortune can't help us with this problem.

Because some label colors are a tossup as to whether they are maroon or brown (such as Checker and Vee Jay), we'll at least be consistent and call them maroon. Similarities also occur with brown and tan labels. Since we're calling maroon/brown as maroon, we'll call brown/tan as light brown (Argo and Hull are two that come to mind).

You'll find the year or years of releases covered on each line. This will aid you in putting the chronology in proper perspective.

Please address all additions, corrections and suggestions to the publisher or to: Victor Pearlin, P.O. Box 60299, Greendale Station, Worcester MA 01606. Thank you!

ACE

500 through 504 (1955): Black label.
505 through 511 (1955): Yellow label.
512 (1955): Blue label.
513 through 527 (1955-1957): Yellow label.
528 and higher (1957 forward): White label.

This is the Mississippi Ace label, not the New York Ace label that had releases in the 100 series beginning in 1956.

ALADDIN

3000 through 3259 (1947-1954): Blue label.
3260 through 3399 (1954-1957): Maroon label.
3400 and higher (1957 forward): Black label.

Opaque green vinyl exists for 3097, 3104 and 3128 and opaque red vinyl for 3144.

ARGO

5250 through 5281 (1956-1957): Silver and black label with "ship" logo.

5282 through 5360 (1957-1960): Black label, silver lettering, with vertical Argo logo.

5361 and higher (1960 forward): Light brown label with vertical Argo logo. Certain pressing plants used the above black label in the 5300 series.

In late 1965 around number 5515, Argo became Cadet. The name change didn't affect the numbering, as Cadet continued with the 5500 series.

ATCO

6050 through 6090 (1955-1957): Maroon label.
6091 and higher (1957 forward): Yellow and white label.

ATLANTIC

932 through 1083 (1951-1956): Yellow and black label without fan logo.

1084 through 2134 (1956-1962): Red and black label without fan logo.

2135 and higher (1962 forward): Red and black label with fan logo.

Regarding earlier numbers, below 932, Atlantic 919 was issued on 45 rpm and there's a possibility that 914 was also on 45. Both labels would be as described for Atlantic 932 through 1083. In the early seventies, Atlantic reissued many of their 932 through 1083 numbers on yellow and black (with fan logo) labels. These used a glossy label stock, whereas the originals were done on a flat paper stock.

BACK BEAT

500 through 530 (1957-1959): White label.

531 and higher (1960 forward): Red "drum" label.

The label name is often shown as one word, "Backbeat."

BRUCE

101 (1953) Script label.

101 through 109 (1953-1954) Has address, "1650 Broadway, N.Y. 19, N.Y." under "Bruce Records." Also has "45 R.P.M." on both sides above the top horizontal line.

110 through 129 (1954-1955) Has "Mfg. by Nu-Way Enterprises, Inc., 1650 Broadway, N.Y. 19, N.Y." under "Bruce Records." Also has "45 R.P.M." on both sides above the top horizontal line.

Exception: Originals of Bruce 111 (What'll You Do/Tell Me by the Master-Tones) have "1650 Broadway, N.Y. 19, N.Y." under "Bruce Records" and "45 R.P.M." above the top horizontal line.

Early reissues have "1650 Broadway, N.Y. 19, N.Y." under "Bruce Records" but have "Unbreakable "45 R.P.M." on the left side only, and between the two horizontal lines. Any copies with the sawtooth (wavy) lines are definitely second pressings.

BRUNSWICK

55000 through 55166 (1957-1960): Maroon label.

55167 through 55250 (1960-1963): Orange label.

55251 and higher (1963 forward): Black label with multi-colored arrow.

CAPITOL

791 through 4290 (1949-1959): Purple label with Capitol logo on top.

4680 through 5999 (1961-1967): Orange and yellow "swirl" label.

Regarding Capitol 4664 through 4679, we've seen enough inconsistencies in this gap to render us unable to make any concrete determinations. Thus far, the highest number we've seen, pressed exclusively on purple, is 4663. The lowest number we know of, pressed exclusively on orange and yellow, is 4680. Many numbers in-between appeared on both Capitol labels. Numbers prior to the beginning of 45 rpm production are reissues of material first issued on 78 rpms.

CHECKER

758 through 800 (1952-1954): Maroon and silver "checkerboard" top label, without "Record Co." under the name Checker.

801 through 876 (1954-1957): Maroon and silver "checkerboard" top label, with "Record Co." under the name Checker.

877 through 1050 (1957-1963): Maroon label, with vertical Checker letters on left side.

1101 and higher (1965 forward): Light blue label, without checkers. Inexplicable pressing plant variations exist, such as numbers as high as 1129 (late '65) with the maroon label, with vertical Checker letters on left side.

Notes: There is some doubt that 759 and 761 were issued on 45. Some colored plastic exists in the 766-800 series. Several issues after 1101 used the blue label with checkers, but they were inconsistent during that period. A few red vinyl issues appeared in the 766 to 800 series. The first "checkerboard" (maroon) label is often referred to as the "web top" Checker label; however it is a checkerboard and not a spider's web.

Checker 78s as late as 937 exist with the checkerboard design at top, as opposed to 45s which switched designs beginning with 876. Also, 78s as early as 900 have Checker name vertically on left side.

CHESS

1458 through 1670 (1951-1957): Blue and silver label, with three chess pieces at the top.

1671 through 1798 (1957-1961): Blue label, with vertical Chess letters.

1799 through 1840 (1961-1963): Either blue label, with vertical Chess letters, or multi-color label.

1841 through 1950 (1963-1966): Black label, however there are many pressing plant variations. Some 1800 series issues exist on blue and silver, others on multi-color Chess labels.

1951 and higher (1966 forward): Light blue label.

A few red vinyl issues appeared in the 1530-1550 series. Inexplicable pressing plant variations exist, such as numbers as high as 1966 (mid-'66) with the blue label, with vertical Chess letters on left side.

COMBO

1 through 100 (1951-1956): Glossy red label.

101 and higher (1956 forward): Purple label with Combo name angled across most of the upper left section of the label. No street address shown.

Purple labels with Combo name much smaller (using a reduced portion of the label top) and with street address are reissues. Flat red (almost purple) labels are also reissues.

DECCA

23000 through 29400 (1949-1955): Black label with lines on both sides of the Decca name.

29401 through 31100 (1955-1960): Black label with lines and a star under the Decca name.

31101 and higher (1960 forward): Label is black at the top and bottom, but has a horizontal multi-color band through the center.

An occasional number above 30000 will surface on the label (with lines on both sides of the name Decca) shown for numbers under 29401. Numbers before Decca 45s began (23000 and some as high as 25500 – black label with lines on both sides) are 45 rpm reissues of material first issued on 78s.

DELUXE

3300 through 3323 (1949-1952): Black label with "AA" following the number. Does not have "Hi-Fidelity" on label. 6000 through 6090 (1953-1955), black label without "AA" following the number. Does not have "High-Fidelity" on the label.

6091 through 6190 (1955-1959): Black label, with "High-Fidelity" on the label.

6191 through 6200 (1960-1963): Yellow label.

Blue plastic exists between 3318 and 3323. Discs before 45 production began are reissues of material first issued on 78 rpms.

DOOTO

412 through 416 (1957): Maroon and silver label.

417 through 440 (1957-1958): Yellow label with logo in red oval.

441 through 452 (1958-1959): Yellow label with logo in blue oval.

453 through 465 (1959-1961): Black label with multi-color print.

472 and higher (1962 forward): Maroon label with multi-color print.

700 series (1958-1959) Yellow label with logo in blue oval.

Dooto was previously Dootone, and the number series is continued for Dootone's numbering. 466 through 471 were on Dootone instead of Dooto. Some of the changeover numbers are approximate, since many of Dooto's releases were comedy, etc., and we were unable to locate copies of those records.

DOOTONE

300 through 411 (1951-1957) Usually flat maroon labels, but may also be blue, black or glossy red. Yellow, glossy maroon and multi-colored labels are reissues.

466 through 471 (1961-1962) Red label with multi-color print.

1200 series: Red label.

Dootone, in early 1957, changed their name to Dooto, continuing with the same numbering series. 466 through 471 were on Dootone instead of Dooto.

DOT

1000 through 1100 (1950-1952): Glossy maroon label with gold print.

1101 through 1150 (1952-1953): Yellow label with black print.

1151 through 1288 (1953-1957): Maroon label with silver print.

15000 through 15500 (1951-1957): Maroon label with silver print.

15501 and higher (1957 forward): Black label.

A few numbers above 15500 are on the maroon label.

DUKE

101 through 342 (1952-1961): Yellow and purple label.

343 and higher (1961 forward): Orange label.

EMBER

1001 through 1039 (1956-1958): Red or orange labels.

1040 through 1064 (1958-1960): Multi-color label, with name lettered with flaming logs.

1065 and higher (1960 forward): Black label.

An occasional number above 1065 exists on the multi-color label.

END

1000 through 1010 (1957): Black label.

1010 through 1045 (1957-1959): White or gray labels. (1010 exists both black and white labels. Also, 1005 and 1008 can be found with white.)

1046 and higher (1959 forward): White or multi-color labels.

EXCELLO

2001 through 2057 (1952-1955): Yellow and blue label.

2058 through 2209 (1955-1962): Orange and blue label.

2210 and higher (1962 forward): Red, white and blue label.

FEDERAL

12001 through 12084 (1950-1952): Green label with gold top and "AA" following the number.

12085 through 12129 (1952-1953): Green label with gold top. Does not have the "AA."

12130 through 12196 (1953-1954): Green label with silver top. Some in this series were green with gold top.

12197 through 12244 (1954-1955): Green label, without "Hi-Fidelity."

12245 through 12369 (1955-1959): Green label with "Hi-Fidelity" in small print. Most, if not all, we've seen with this label have an em dash in the selection number between the "45" and 12,000 series number (i.e. 45—12496).

12370 and higher (1959 forward): Green label with "Hi-Fidelity" in larger print. Most, if not all, with this label have a hyphen – not a dash – in the selection number between the "45" and 12,000 series number (i.e. 45-12496).

Blue plastic issues exist between 12050 and approximately 12070.

FEE BEE

201 through 221 (1956-1958): Orange label with "bee" logo. Also, "45 rpm" appears on BOTH sides above the horizontal lines.

222 and higher (1958 forward): Orange label without "bee" on label.

FLASH

101 through 103 (1955): Red label.

104 through 113 (1955-1956): Maroon label.

114 through 127 (1956-1958): Blue label.

128 through 133 (1958-1959): Black label.

FLIP

301 through 305 (1955): Maroon label.

306 and higher (1955 forward): Blue label.

Reissues, through approximately 350, have the matrix number (an "FL" prefix and number) in parentheses.

FURY

1000 through 1019 (1957-1958): Maroon label.

1020 through 1023 (1958-1959): Yellow label without horse head logo.

1024 through 1032 (1959-1960): Yellow label with horse head logo.

1033 through 1039 (1960): Multi-color label.

1040 and higher (1960 forward): Yellow label with horse head logo or multi-color label.

GEE

1 through 12 (1954): Yellow and green label.

1000 through 1021 (1955-1956): Red label, without "Trade Mark" and "Reg. U.S. Pat. Off."

1040 through 1050 (1957-1959): Red label with "Trade Mark" on the left and "Reg. U.S. Pat. Off" on the right.

1051 and higher (1959 forward): Gray label, although an occasional number will turn up on the red label.

GONE

5001 through 5003 (1957): Black label, with shadow ("drop shadow") of the letters "GONE" shown.

5004 through 5056 (1957-1959): Black label without drop shadow of the letters "GONE."

5057 and higher (1959 forward): Multi-color label.

Some copies of 5012 have the multi-color Gone logo (with the singer's head and open mouth in the letter "O") on black label stock. Others above 5057 occasionally are found on black.

GOTHAM

100 through 288 (1951-1953): Blue label.

289 through 304 (1953-1955): Red label.

305 and higher (1955 forward): Yellow label.

Gotham 304 was also issued on blue and on yellow labels. Red vinyl issues appear for many Gotham discs. Actual selection numbers may be shown with a "7" preceding the above numbers.

GRAND

All Grand first pressings are on thick discs with small lettering on the artist and title lines. Reissues had this print nearly double the size of that used on originals. Pressings with the label's address shown are reissues. First pressings had the selection number on the bottom whereas later issues had the number on the left side We can't swear to this being true on every Grand 45; however, it applies to all that we have seen.

HERALD

401 through 410 (1953): Black label.

410 through 415 (1953): Yellow label with block print and no flag. (Herald 410 can be found on either black or yellow.)

416 through 528 (1953-1958): Yellow label with script print inside the flag. Some issues in this series appeared with the block style print. Two exceptions in this series are 416 and 432, which can be found on yellow, but without the flag.

529 through 550 (1958-1959): Multi-color label. Some of the higher numbers in this series appeared on a variety of label designs.

551 and higher (1959 forward): Yellow label, with block print inside the flag. A variety of label styles and designs can be found in this series.

Note: Clear red vinyl pressings are found in the 410-421 series.

HOLIDAY

2601 through 2603 (1956-1957): Flat black label.

2604 through 2611 (1957-1958): Glossy red label. (Flat red labels are reissues.)

HULL

711 and 712 (1955-1956): Pink label.

713 through 715 (1956): Black label, without outside ring.

716 through 721 (1956-1957): Black or red label with silver outside ring.

722 through 742 (1957-1961): Red label without outside ring.

743 and higher (1961 forward): Tan label.

IMPERIAL

5000 through 5300 (1952-1954): Blue label with Imperial name in script lettering.

5301 through 5357 (1954-1955): Red label with Imperial name in script lettering.

5358 through 5460 (1955-1957): Maroon label with Imperial name in block lettering. Red labels with silver print also exist in this range (i.e. 5463).

5461 and higher (1957 forward): Black label.

Opaque red vinyl pressings occur in the 5200-5235 series. Clear red is used on 5262 and "hold to a light" purple can be found in the 5340s. There was a great deal of overlapping, from one style to another, throughout the Imperial catalog. Numbers prior to the beginning of 45 rpm production are issues of material first issued on 78 rpms.

JAMIE

1000 through 1100 (1956-1958): Black label.

1101 through 1124 (1958-1959): Yellow label.

1125 and higher (1959 forward): White and mustard colored label.

JOSIE

760 through 829 (1954-1957): Light brown label with "JOZ" logo and brown print.

830 through 845 (1957-1958): Light brown label with "JOZ" logo and red print.

846 and higher (1958 forward): Light brown label with "JOSIE" logo.

JOYCE

101 through 105 (1957): Blue label, with the "Y" in Joyce larger than the other letters.

JOZ: see JOSIE

JUBILEE

5000 through 5092 (1951-1952): Blue label, with Jubilee in script lettering. No line under "Jubilee."

5093 through 5340 (1952-1958): Blue label, with Jubilee in script lettering and underlined.

5341 and higher (1958 forward): Black label.

Clear red vinyl pressings are found in the 5055 to 5120 series. Numbers prior to the beginning of 45 production are reissues of material first issued on 78 rpms.

KING

500 through 1470 (1951-1955): Maroon label.

1471 through 1502 (1955): Blue label.

4449 through 4544 (1951-1952): Blue label with the letters "AA" following the number and no "High Fidelity" shown.

4545 through 4834 (1952-1955): Blue label without the letters "AA" following the number and no "High Fidelity" shown.

4835 through 5266 (1955-1959): Blue label with "High Fidelity" in small print.

5267 and higher (1959 forward): Blue label with "High Fidelity" in larger print.

Clear colored vinyl (blue, purple, green and red) was pressed in the 1000-1150 and in the 4450-4525 series. Numbers prior to the beginning of 45 production are reissues of material first issued on 78 rpms.

LIBERTY

55001 through 55270 (1955-1960): Green label with silver print.

55271 through 56218 (1960-1970): Multi-color label.

MGM

10000 through 12828 (1949-1959): Yellow label.

12829 and higher (1959 forward): Black label. MGM switched to a blue and yellow label somewhere around 14000 (1969), but we can't pinpoint the exact changeover number.

55000 series (1955-1956): Yellow label.

Numbers prior to the beginning of 45 production are reissues of material first issued on 78 rpms.

MERCURY

5000 through 8999 (1949-1952): Maroon label.

70000 through 71039 (1949-1957): Maroon or black label, though maroon ends around 71100. Also used in this series was a label picturing Mercury (Roman mythological messenger of the gods) in a square, which appeared on maroon, black, pink (R&B), and green (C&W) stock.

71040 through 72320 (1957-1964) Maroon or black label, with the Mercury ellipse (or oval), or square logo.

72321 and higher (1964 forward): Red label.

METEOR

5000 and 5001 (1953): Yellow label.

5002 through 5030 (1953-1956): Red label.

5031 through 5046 (1956-1958): Black label.

MODERN

779 through 980 (1950-1956): Glossy red or glossy black.

981 through 1028 (1956-1958): Flat black.

MOTOWN

1000 through 1010 (1960-1961): Pink label.

1011 and higher (1961 forward): Blue label.

MUSIC CITY

730 through 795 (1954-1956): Maroon label.

796 through 807 (1956-1957): Flat black label.

808 and higher (1957 forward): Glossy black with multi-colors.

Red, green, and blue plastic exists in the 700 series.

OKEH

6800 through 7092 (1951-1957): Purple label, with small Okeh logo.

7093 through 7140 (1957-1960): Yellow label. A few purple labels overlapped into this series.

7141 and higher (1960 forward): Purple label with large Okeh logo.

OLD TOWN

700 series (1953): Yellow label, with block style (sans-serif) print. Label print is green

1000 through 1012 (1954-1955): Yellow label, with "Old Town" in Old English style lettering. Label print is brown.

1013 through 1028 (1955-1956): Yellow label, with block style (sans-serif) print and horizontal rope-like lines.

1029 through 1051 (1956-1958): Yellow label, with block style (sans-serif) print but with straight, not rope-like, lines.

1052 and higher (1958 forward): Blue label.

Red vinyl pressings occur in the 700 series and in the 1000 series. Beginning with 1094, "There's A Moon Out Tonight," Old Town started using a slightly different blue label, darker and with a yellow moon (probably to tie in with their biggest hit). Later numbers can be found on either of the two blue labels, at least through 1133, which we know was pressed on both of the blue labels.

ONYX

501 through 513 (1956-1957): Glossy black label.

514 through 520 (1957-1958): Flat black and orange or flat black and green label.

PARADISE

101 through 109 (1953-1959): Maroon label with horizontal rope-like lines.

110 and higher (1959 forward): Purple label without horizontal rope-like lines.

PEACOCK

1500 through 1604 (1949-1952): Flat maroon label

1605 through 1675 (1952-1957): Glossy red label.

1676 through 1699 (1957-1961): White label.

1700 through 1899 (1952-1961): Black label.

1900 through 1925 (1961-1962): White label.

1926 and higher (1962 forward): Blue and multi-colored label.

Red plastic exists in the 1700 series. This series was Peacock's gospel series and, as the years indicate, it paralleled their 1600 pop series rather than followed it.

RCA VICTOR

50-0000 through 50-0105 (1950): Gray label, gold print. Red vinyl. (The industry's first 45 rpm singles were the early numbers in this series.)

50-0106 through 50-0141 (1950-1951): Gray label, silver print. Black vinyl.

47-2800 through 47-4572 (1948-1952): Turquoise label.

47-4573 through 47-5700 (1952-1954): Flat black label with the dog on right side.

47-5700 through 47-8550 (1954-1965): Glossy black label, with the dog on top.

47-8551 through 47-9650 (1965-1968): Glossy black label, with the dog on the left side.

47-9650 and higher (1968 forward): Orange label.

The changeover numbers of 5600, 8550 and 9650 are approximate; our best estimates at this time (especially 5700). If you have releases that can better narrow these down, please let us know. Some numbers in the 6600-6800 series were issued without the dog anywhere on the label.

The "20," "47" and "50" were the most common RCA Victor prefixes, however there were several others in use during this period, including: "21," "22," "23," "25," "28," "40," "46," "48" and "51." None of these specialty series releases were reissued using the same number.

RPM

300 through 362 (1950-1952): "RPM" in script style lettering on either maroon, black or blue labels.

363 through 502 (1952-1956): "RPM" in block (san-serif) style lettering on either red, black or blue labels.

RAINBOW

100 through 250 (1950-1954): Blue label.

251 and higher (1954 forward): Yellow label.

Note: Colored vinyl pressings are found in the 200 series.

RAMA

1 through 196 (1953-1956): Blue label.

197 through 222 (1956-1957): Red label without "Reg. U.S. Pat. Off."

223 through 233 (1957): Red label, with "Reg. U.S. Pat. Off" on left side.

Red plastic exists in some numbers below 50.

RED TOP

100 through 111 (1957): Light blue label.

112 and higher (1957 forward): Red label.

ROULETTE

4001 through 4004 (1957): Orange or red label with roulette wheel circling label.

4005 through 4050 (1957-1958): Orange or red labels with partial roulette wheel or no wheel at all.

4051 through 4420 (1958-1962): White label with six colored "spokes" (lines).

4421 through 4500 (1962-1963): Dark pink label.

4500 and higher (1963 forward): Orange label with broken line and logo circling label.

All changeover numbers are approximate with Roulette. Information helpful in narrowing these down would be appreciated.

SPARK

101 through 108 (1954): Red label, with red letter on a silver top.

109 (1954): Red or blue label, with silver print.

110 through 119 (1955): Red label.

120 through 122 (1955-1956): Yellow and black label.

SPECIALTY

300 through 607 (1951-1957): With saw-tooth (wavy) horizontal lines.

608 and higher (1957 forward): Without saw-tooth (wavy) horizontal lines.

Numbers 500-525 were used in 1946-1948 for 78 rpm issues. Specialty therefore jumped from 499 to 526 in 1954. Colored vinyl pressings are found in the mid-400 series.

TAMLA

100 and 102 (1959): Yellow label with horizontal lines across the top of the label.

5501 (1960): Yellow label with horizontal lines across the top of the label.

54024 through 54043 (1960-1961): Yellow label with horizontal lines across the top of the label.

54044 through 54175 (1961-1968): Yellow label with "globes" logo. Globes may be overlapped or side by side.

54176 and higher (1968 forward): Yellow label, with "box" logo.

VEE JAY

100 through 223 (1953-1956): Maroon label with thin outer silver circle. Does not have "Trademark Reg." or "Made In The U.S.A." on the label.

224 through 286 (1956-1958): Maroon label with thin outer silver circle. Does not have "Trademark Reg." but does have "Made In The U.S.A." on the label.

287 through 353 (1958-1960): Maroon label with thicker outer silver circle. Has "Trademark Reg." but does not have "Made In The U.S.A." on the label.

354 and higher (1960 forward): Black label.

Vee Jay 280 had the thicker outer line, but was an exception to the rule. Red plastic exists in some numbers in the 100 series. When the Beatles became popular in January 1964, Vee Jay releases poured forth, using a wide assortment of label colors and designs.

WINLEY

212 (1957): Blue label.

213 through 230 (1957-1958): Orange label, "Winley" name is in smaller (3/16-inch) print.

231 and higher (1958 forward): Orange label, "Winley" name is in slightly larger (1/4-inch) print.

A GUIDE TO CANADIAN PRESSINGS

By Peter S. McCullough

For most record collectors in Canada – as well as U.S. residents who buy from dealers in Canada – the most perplexing issue is usually accurate identification of original and later Canadian issues from the '50s and '60s. This is especially important when trying to use the listings of U.S. releases in The Official Price Guide to Records to appraise Canadian pressings that do not yet appear in the guide. It should be noted that an effort has been underway in the last few years to include as many important Canadian issues as possible in the guide.

To long-time collectors familiar with the Canadian record companies, the label itself, along with the apparent age of the record, can often identify a Canadian original as well as indicate its U.S. counterpart. Sometimes reference is even made to a U.S. label and number making the task simple.

For U.S. collectors – and younger Canadian collectors – being unfamiliar with our labels and with searching for clues on those labels, identification of originals may prove a daunting task. Hopefully, the information here makes accurate identification of Canadian originals easier for collectors on both sides of the border.

Aside from the issue of labels and/or pressings, the value of a '50s or '60s Canadian record traded in the U.S. will sometimes depend on a historical context; one with which U.S. collectors may be unfamiliar.

For example, most collectors of the Band know that their members' early releases were with Ronnie Hawkins and the Hawks, but may not know that some recordings were released in Canada with all the individual band members named.

Similarly, Beatles collectors may be unaware that the first single release of Love Me Do only in the U.K. and in Canada is the take with Ringo as drummer rather than the session drummer, Andy White, on another take. Subsequent album releases in both Canada and the U.S. contain the track with Ringo only on tambourine and the session drummer. This alternate release with Ringo drumming was unavailable in the U.S. until the 1980 release of Rarities. Other striking examples will be outlined here as an aid to evaluating certain Canadian releases in their sometimes unfamiliar historical context.

Finally, as an aside it should be noted that in Quebec a virtually separate music industry exists for francophone performers and record companies. Although a few artists and labels are listed here there is no intention to give authoritative information on this area.

Some labels and artists related to the early seventies are also included largely to assist in identification.

DIFFERENCES BETWEEN CANADIAN AND U.S. LABELS

The Canadian recording industry was, to be kind, primitive in the early '50s. The majority of records released were from the large U.S. companies (Columbia, Decca, RCA Victor, Mercury, etc.) marked only as "made in Canada." Canadian labels were few and small. Mostly, the established U.S. labels simply reproduced the U.S. "pop" hits for consumption in Canada.

The mid-'50s, however, brought significant changes. With the appearance of many rock and roll recordings by smaller U.S. labels came their need to release their records in Canada. This created a market for a new kind of record company known to collectors as "shadow" labels. The term correctly implies a certain unreality, and these labels had virtually no bands nor artists signed. They existed solely to reproduce for the Canadian market the countless independent U.S. issues. Among the shadow labels were: Quality, Reo, Sparton, Apex, Delta, and Regency.

Sometimes the shadows used U.S. selection numbers; sometimes Canadian numbers were shown. Occasionally both were used. Often shadow labels would reflect a licensing agreement with text like: "by arrangement with (Whomever) Records." And since these records were usually released simultaneously in Canada and the U.S., both must be considered originals. By the late fifties, there were about 15 shadow labels being manufactured by about five plants, with several being produced by Quality Records Limited – the company as opposed to the record label.

Also, some releases came on a hybrid label, where a Canadian shadow company acknowledged the original U.S. label by name, sometimes even showing the U.S. selection number. For example, Quality releases sometimes denoted "King Series" signifying the disc as a Canadian pressing of a U.S. release from King Records. London records similarly issued some records with "London" at the top and "Liberty" below. Maple Leaf released several hybrids showing Deluxe. These hybrid releases were also simultaneously issued in the U.S. and Canada.

Quite a few Canadian records were basic reproductions of the U.S. label, though some have slightly altered designs and/or different colours. These too are original first pressings. An original '50s and early '60s Warner Bros. release in Canada, for example, was produced by the Compo Company – a fact shown only in fine print – on a deep red label as opposed to the pink label in the U.S. As the pop and rock market grew and production costs dropped, most U.S. labels, majors and independents alike, would "fly their own flag" in Canada, so to speak.

By 1970, most U.S. recordings appeared in Canada simultaneously using a label nearly identical to the U.S. label, but produced by a Canadian manufacturer.

In the early '60s, though, we also saw some discs from truly Canadian independent labels, ones with a stable of Canadian artists (although sometimes a "stable" of one artist or group). Occasionally one of these releases broke in the U.S. and would be picked up by a U.S. company for distribution. In such cases, the Canadian release usually preceded the U.S. release by a few months, making the Canadian one the true original and potentially more valuable – and probably scarcer – than the U.S. version. More often than not, however, these records failed to realize airplay or sales outside of Canada.

Besides the categories already described, the following minor label variants exist and should be helpful in the area of identification:

British Invasion Oddities

Some overseas recordings – primarily during the mid-'60s British Invasion – came out here exactly as issued in the U.K. Inexplicably, the U.S. versions often contained edited or otherwise altered versions of these tracks.

Promotional Issues

Unlike in the States, Canada had very few promotional copies in the '50s and '60s. Dee jays got regular Canadian product shipped slightly in advance of commercial release. Certain regular Canadian issues did, however, strongly resemble promos.

Atco, for example, used plain white labels with black lettering, but they are clearly store stock, not promos. Similarly, Chancellor was reproduced with a white label with black print but these releases were not "promos." It should be noted, therefore, that any Canadian release resembling a promo should be appraised with care since a true promo issue, especially one issued between 1954 and 1970, may have great value.

Labels from the Past

Canadian issues often used the correct U.S. label and number, but with an older style label design that was discontinued in the States.

IDENTIFICATION OF CANADIAN ORIGINALS

The detailed description of actual labels falls into basic sections. First, a discussion of the various Canadian labels and Canadian versions of U.S. labels and their identification as true originals and, second, a brief synopsis of certain specific artists and groups, major and minor, whose Canadian original releases pose the greatest problems of identification. This dual approach comes with some risk of duplication, but is necessary in order to avoid even greater confusion overall. In most cases, appearance on a certain Canadian label usually ties it to a corresponding U.S. company – hence its being equivalent to either a first pressing or reissue if that's what the U.S. issue is. In other cases, identification must be determined by facts concerning the recording history of the artists themselves.

It should be noted that the bulk of analysis here pertains to singles – 45 and 78 rpms. This format comprises the vast majority of releases. Furthermore, most LPs can be identified using essentially the same information.

Speaking of 78s, those produced in Canada may also need to be reconsidered. Since the attempted inclusion of all 78 releases in Records, it is becoming increasingly apparent that many singles were released only on 45 in the U.S. but on both formats in Canada. Now Records can begin to identify a new Canadian source of certain 78 releases which had previously been thought of as unavailable. Understandably, these previously unknown 78s are quite scarce and will be in high demand among 78 collectors on both sides of the border when their existence becomes known.

This same "retro" tendency occurred in the late '80s and early '90s where a vinyl LP could be purchased in Canada but was generally only available on CD in the U.S.

Canadian Shadow Labels

The colour and design characteristics of most original Canadian shadow labels of the '50s and '60s can be summarized as follows: (Unless otherwise indicated, comments apply to 78s, 45s and LPs):

Apex: As of the mid-'50s, releases are maroon with silver print changing to reddish brown in the early '60s. Most of Cadence's U.S. releases were on Apex in Canada. As a label, Apex predates the '50s with 78s on a dark blue label with silver print. These are all pop music releases and normally would be disregarded by rock and R & B aficionados.

Arc: Singles on 45 have a flat black label with silver printing. Most Arc releases were budget junk but a significant few are rare and highly collectible, including Canadian-only releases by Anne Murray. Most LPs have red labels. Some LPs are in the "Arc Citation" series, with a gold label with black print.

Barrel: Singles are black with silver print.

Barry: Singles are white with red print.

Birchmont: A Quality-owned budget label used for cheapies and reissues, but with some collectible items.

Delta: Singles are dark reddish brown with silver print. Produced by Quality Records, most Delta issues tend to be blues or rhythm and blues.

London: As of the late '50s and early '60s this label functioned effectively as a U.K. label with issues in Canada. Labels are basically blue with silver lettering with a very few labels being reddish brown. As of around 1964 the label functions in the U.S. as well (see U.S. variants section below).

Maple Leaf: With early '50s issues only, they are gray with a red maple leaf. Limited mostly to country and western material, but with some exceptions.

Marble Arch: Late '60s budget-style reissue label, including reissues of Donovan recordings and many others.)

Pye: Another U.K. label with product also issued in Canada. Most singles from the '60s are orange/red, though they changed to blue around 1969. LP labels are consistently orange. Many important '60s acts including the Kinks, Donovan have their releases on a Canadian Pye.

Regency: Singles have mostly green labels with silver printing. Some labels are light brown with white printing. Circa 1960, the label changed to medium blue, black print, and some lime green on each side.

Reo: Singles are dark green with silver print. Reissues are gold with black print. Albums may refer to a U.S. label and number on the sleeve, but the disc itself has the green Reo label.

Reo seems to have been consistently used for Canadian releases of product on smaller, independent U.S. labels. Probably more different singles were released on Reo than any other shadow label.

Quality: Singles from the '50s are pale yellow with red printing and a prominent Canadian-only selection number on the right side. Early releases may have an identifying reference to a U.S. label (e.g. "King Series"). LP labels are dark blue with silver lettering. A few exceptions exist that have the yellow and red label. Starting in the mid-'60s, Quality's reissue singles have gold labels and black lettering, but are otherwise identical to originals. There is also a maroon with silver print version of the Quality label used in the '60s for francophone releases distributed in Quebec.

Sparton: Singles are dark maroon with silver print. Circa 1960-'61, the colours changed to fuchsia and black with the same design, and later (1969) yellow and black. If a U.S. ABC-Paramount release, as most Sparton discs are, there's usually a silver half moon (later black) at the bottom, although some pressings merely make reference to ABC-Paramount.

Independent Canadian Labels

As previously indicated, "independents" are those labels that had their own talent and were not restricted to merely reproducing U.S. releases. Often these labels were strongly associated with one artist (which we'll try to mention) and differ from the shadow labels in the sense that the output was limited to a few select recordings. Labels with obviously unimportant output are included for identification purposes now, though more-significant releases, if any, may be later ascertained.

References to other labels or artists pertain to this chapter, not necessarily the listings in Records.

Aim: Few releases, the most notable being a re-release of the Chateau recordings of Gordon Lightfoot.

Allied: Reddish orange label existing in early '60s.

Attic: Singles, which have light orange labels, include a wide-ranging catalogue of Canadian artists. Releases were probably no earlier than 1969.

Aquarius: Blue in colour, Western Canada-based indie. Released a "Guess Who" album by a band with similar style but different line-up.

Badger: Limited Canadian-only releases: label pictures a badger.

Boo: An offshoot of Rebel Records: silver with black lettering and a plant logo similar to a marijuana plant. See Grant Smith and the Power.

Canatel: Early '60s releases are yellow with black print. Best known for releases by Larry Lee and the Leisures.

Chateau: Maritime-based folk and soft rock releases of the Maritimes. Famous for releasing early Gordon Lightfoot country stylings, most of which Mr. Lightfoot bought back and destroyed. These albums and possibly singles are very rare since Lightfoot has destroyed the majority of them. Some labels are white with black printing, others are maroon with silver printing.

Coast: Orange label originating in Vancouver. Date of releases of merit are unknown, and likely very limited.

Daffodil: Singles have a yellow daffodil with dark green leaves. Canadian bands on Daffodil include Crow Bar and King Biscuit Boy. A late '60s label that appears to have died out by the mid-'70s.

Disques Vogue (Vogue Records): A francophone (i.e. sung in French) version of Vogue, with English music released on French translated labels. Black on silver in early sixties later becoming white and green.

Dominion: Budget country and western label. No collectible releases are known.

Fonorama: Quebec-based indie with francophone rock releases of the mid-'60s.

Freedom: Indie with white label and various coloured lettering. Specializes in releases by David Wilcox.

Giant: Red figure on blue background. No known releases other than the Craddock Kids.

Globe: Dark blue '60s label, possibly limited to novelty records.

GRT: Obscure, early '70s releases.

Hawk: Multi-coloured ornate label with brown background. Released mid-'60s Ronnie Hawkins material.

Joy: Blue label. Nature of releases unknown.

Jupiter: Francophone releases. Black with silver lettering.

Melborne: Flat black with silver lettering small indie label with limited folk-type releases from Maritimes.

Music World Creations (MWC): This '70s label featured singles by the Stampeders.

Nimbus 9: Singles are a pale light brown with black print and a purple logo: They had the Guess Who in later years although some singles were on RCA and noted simply as a "Nimbus 9" production.

Pacha: White and green '70s label, with no known significant releases.

Premiere: Francophone Quebec-based label.

Rebel: Singles, white with blue print, surprisingly display a Confederate Flag! Primarily associated with Canadian folk singer, Stompin' Tom Connors.

Red Leaf: Mid-'60s singles are red and white, similar to the present Canadian flag.

Roman: Early singles are black with silver lettering, later ones medium and light blue with black printing. Releases include David Clayton Thomas before his Blood, Sweat & Tears years.

Rusticana: A Quebec recording company. Green and silver. Releases consist of pop and light rock.

Skyline: Mid-'70s Quality Records Limited spinoff. Light blue with white lettering. Output apparently is MOR rock.

Snowy River: Canadian indie, white with blue lettering.

Star: Black with silver printing, an offshoot of ARC with no known significant releases. Probably limited to poor quality cover versions.

Stone: High-quality, late '60s rock of a psychedelic nature appears on this "sub shadow" label. Produced by Sparton records. Several formats exist, but a distinctive green and white design is most common.

Tamarac: In the early 1960s, this independent label had a green and silver design (with different colours later) with a key collectible release being Shirley Matthews' (1963) Big Town Boy (Tamarac 610).

Tartan: Singles, white and red with a black Scottish kilt design on top, appear restricted to Bobby Curtola – the Canadian star who achieved some U.S. notoriety (Fortuneteller) in the early '60s.

Teledisc: Quebec-based indie, yellow and white with blue and black lettering. Limited to francophone rock.

Tembo: Late '80s indie; has a white label with red logo.

Vogue: (see Disques Vogue above). Had many Petula Clark releases.

Worth: Gold with red lettering. Active in the early sixties. Nature and extent of releases not yet known to us.

Yorktown: A true Canadian indie whose earliest releases are flat black with silver lettering. Later ones are yellow with red inset.

Zirkon: Flat black with silver lettering. Releases consist primarily of Adam Wade issues.

U.S. Labels Issued in Canada

This list highlights U.S. labels issued in Canada, but only familiar ones that have significant variations between the two countries. If a label is not listed here, one should not necessarily assume the labels to be identical. Rather, it is likely that no significant label variations have been identified.

Atco: In Canada there is no use of yellow. Early '50s labels are primarily white with black print, changing to primarily black with silver print in the late '50s.

Contrary to commentary in earlier editions we can now confirm that the black and silver label was used on 78s, including Dream Lover and Mack the Knife – two 1959 releases by Bobby Darin.

For the record, Atlantic, Atco's parent company, releases pretty much show up in Canada on Quality, either noted as "Atlantic Series" or with no reference at all to Atlantic.

Brunswick: Original U.S. mid-to-late '50s releases are orange but are maroon in Canada.

Capitol: The '60s Capitol "swirl" label has a distinctive yet subtle difference in colour shading which might be missed when reviewing records in a poor light or in a hurry. Canadian pressings have a demonstrably light yellow and dull brown design whereas U.S. "swirl" pressings (aside from "manufactured in U.S." etc.) have a dark yellow and orange design with bold printing. If it might be important which one you acquire, look carefully!

Chancellor: The U.S. black and red label appears in Canada on 45s but LPs have a white label and black print – similar to a promo label.

Columbia: Releases by this company went through multiple changes on both sides of the border.

Circa-1958, in Canada the reddish maroon label on 45s was replaced with a four eye-logo maroon and silver design. This design was used as well in the U.S. but the colouring is yellow and black. The yellow 45 label was never used in Canada. The four eye-logo design is used on a few late 1959 Canadian 78s.

The maroon and silver label was used until 1960 when a new orange design was introduced that is effectively identical to the red label adopted in the U.S. at about the same time.

With LPs, similar changes occur. A maroon label reverts to a six eye-logo maroon and silver design that is red and black in the U.S. The long play formats converge, with the use of the orange "guaranteed high fidelity" monaural issues, around 1961 or '62.

Deluxe: Sometimes conjoined with "Maple Leaf" logo and colour in early '50s, though later pressings are black with gray print.

Dot: Rather than maroon, Canadian Dot singles are black with silver lettering. Has "Dot" in yellow, red and blue.

Era: Canadian releases have a flat black label with silver printing.

Hickory: Unlike the U.S. black with multi-coloured square, under the "H," Canadian LP and 45 pressings are white with black printing. They do have the same design along with "Manufactured and distributed in Canada by Quality Records Ltd." at the bottom.

Imperial: Imperial singles and albums have maroon labels, as opposed to the bright red ones on U.S. releases. No known Canadian Imperial release has the black Imperial label, used later in the states.

Liberty: Late '50s and early '60s (as conjoined with London) singles labels are blue in Canada and green in U.S. LP releases are sometimes reddish brown.

London: Circa 1964 (with Rolling Stones releases) London appears as a U.S. label utilizing a blue and white triangle design. A similar design is also used in Canada but is orange and white. It appears that before this the London label appeared only in Canada with the basic dark blue design with silver print (see previous London entry).

MGM: Standard yellow '50s labels on 45s were replaced by the black label in 1959 in the United States. In Canada, the yellow 45 label continued until 1964. Information has not yet been received confirming LP issues, but it appears the black label changed at about the same time in both countries.

Parrot: Mid-'60s Canadian Parrot issues have a blue with silver print. U.S. Parrot is black with a yellow figure near the top.

Philips: The U.S. black label with rainbow stripe was replaced initially with a maroon and silver label (same design). In the mid-'60s, they switched from the maroon to a blue label of the same design.

Philles: The usual yellow and red LP labels were replaced in Canada with a black label using silver print.

RCA Victor (Singles): Very early '50s issues are blue with non-photographic dog on side. Post mid-'50s releases are flat black – same as pre mid-'50s U.S. releases. Circa 1965, when the U.S. ceased use of photographic dog on top, replacing it with dog on side, Canadian single releases were still with dog on top (but now photographic). With the switch to an orange label, the issues of each country converged in format, though some 1969 Canadian singles are red. RCA 78s are consistently flat black labels with a non-photographic dog on top, at least until 1959 when A Big Hunk O' Love (RCA 20-7600) had a photographic dog and gramaphone. A Big Hunk O' Love and apparently one or two other 78s came out only in Canada.

RCA Victor (LP Albums): The '50s LPs are flat black with non-photographic dog on top. In the early '60s, the photographic dog appears. Releases of photographic dog on top continue in Canada after U.S. album releases are on the new orange label (e.g. second Youngbloods' album).

Interestingly, RCA sometimes functioned as a shadow label, picking up distribution of U.S. releases on indies or subsidiaries, most notably with the Monkees.

We have confirmed that around 1955 and '56 that some LPs came out on blue labels, which have the same design as the black ones – including Harry Belafonte's Calypso. We have yet to learn of an Elvis Presley LP with the blue label.

The exact number of releases is not known. In addition to the aforesaid Elvis single on 78 with the U.S. style label, The Three Bells by the Browns has now been verified as issued at the same time (1959) with the newly used U.S. style 78 label.

Identification of LP releases as originals between 1959 to 1963 will be extremely difficult. The 1959-'60 originals in Canada have the shiny U.S. style label, but subsequent releases remain exactly the same in the mono format retaining the "Long 33 1/3 Play" at the bottom but without the more shiny but less reflective surface.

The identification of a true Canadian original may only be confirmed by moving the disc in good light where the reflection completely obscures the printing on the label. U.S. releases, by contrast, go through later obvious changes from "Mono" to "Monaural" which never appear on a Canadian RCA LP. For most artists whose releases never go beyond one pressing this does not pose a problem but for Elvis Presley, and to a lesser extent Harry Belafonte, this identification of each pressing is very difficult unless one can utilize the design of the sleeve as a clue.

Rare Earth: The U.S. style orange multi-coloured design is replaced by a black and white design in Canada.

Roulette: By the late '50s, releases are no longer on shadow labels. They first appeared in Canada with maroon, then later on red with "Roulette" in silver across the top, as contrasted with the bright red and black print U.S. label.

Smash: Smash recordings often appear in Canada with "Smash" noted on the outside cover and a Mercury disc inside.

Tamla: Original early '60s singles have a blue label with silver print. Circa 1963 or '64 they switched to the yellow "globes" label. All original Supremes singles – on Motown in the U.S. – have this yellow Tamla label. Tamla used this same yellow label on their albums. Most Canadian original pressings of the Berry Gordy family of labels are very difficult to distinguish from reissues.

Vanguard: While U.S. releases are orange, Canadian releases are distinctively red (mono) and black (stereo) with a similar but different label design.

Warner Bros.: Labels for 45s are red instead of pink.

ARTISTS AND ABERRATIONS

Sometimes it is impossible to correlate Canadian releases to U.S. ones using label information only. Factors relevant to identification to originals often must be tied to specific artists, and this list covers some relevant examples.

Often, a Canadian variant will be identified here that has not yet been noted in Records. The greatest variations in U.S. and Canadian releases occurred during the British Invasion. In most cases, Britain's hit singles and albums were released (successfully) in Canada, but many of these same releases never saw U.S. release until much later, if ever.

Abbey Tavern Singers: Folksie Canadian release We're Off to Dublin in the Green is on Arc 1144. An LP version is on Arc's Citation Series, with a gold label.

Ace, Johnny: Early Canadian releases, including Pledging My Love are on Quality.

Allen, Barry: Canadian crooner with one big hit, Lovedrops. Both his Capitol single and his LP are now very collectible.

Amesbury, Bill: Had one single hit, Virginia (Touch Me Like You Do), on Yorktown 45100.

Animals: In the U.S., this group broke in mid-to-late 1964 with The House of the Rising Sun 45 and an MGM album, The Animals. In Canada, their stuff, including the same LP, came out months earlier on Capitol – though the MGM album was later released in Canada as well. The Capitol release has the full length version of The House of the Rising Sun, with a black and white cover. The MGM album has an edited (U.S. single) version, and a colour sleeve. The Canadian Capitol album is much rarer than the MGM issue.

The House of the Rising Sun (Capitol 72171) and I'm Crying (Capitol 72185) are the only Capitol singles confirmed. The earliest verified MGM single in Canada is Don't Let Me Be Misunderstood (MGM 13315).

Anka, Paul: All early '50s releases are on Sparton.

Avalon, Frankie: Earliest releases including Dede Dinah and Venus appear on Reo (including on 78). Later single releases are on a Canadian version of Chancellor.

Baker, Lavern: Early singles are on Quality with acknowledgment of U.S. Atlantic.

Ballard, Hank: Early releases are on Regency.

Band, The: As mentioned, rocker Ronnie Hawkins developed this group. Early Band singles on Capitol credit their individual names only. Beginning with Music from Big Pink, U.S. and Canadian releases were identical and credit The Band.

Barriere, Fernand: Francophone rocker. See Suspicious on Fonorama S22.

Beach Boys: Capitol's 1981 reissues, on black labels in the U.S., came out in Canada on the traditional purple label.

Beatles: British pop culture had since the '50s at least been transmitted more easily into Canada through movies and music than in the U.S. When the Beatles broke on Parlophone in England, the parent company (E.M.I.) had no trouble convincing its subsidiary Capitol Records of Canada to pick up the releases. Capitol Records in the U.S., more skeptical of success, declined. As a result all U.K. singles were released in Canada on the Capitol yellow swirl label. This includes titles like She Loves You and Twist and Shout, etc., not issued by Capitol in the U.S. at the time. Those singles eventually released in the U.S. didn't come out there until mid-'64.

The original Capitol single Help!/I'm Down in Canada was released with the reference that the song Help was from the new motion picture Eight Arms To Hold You. The original release in U.S. contains no similar reference, but rather to the ultimate title Help! By this time, the original proposed title had been abandoned. Later Canadian pressings refer to the usual movie title Help!

Even though Capitol of Canada was releasing all available singles, it appears the early U.S. issues on MGM, Atco, and Vee Jay came out in Canada as well. The Tollie releases were not issued in Canada.

Reflecting perhaps a less conservative Canadian culture (or perhaps sheer indifference), The Ballad of John and Yoko received air play and was issued in its unexpurgated form – with the "Christ" lines unedited.

The earliest singles released in Canada only can be easily distinguished by their respective "7200" series number. The known listings are the following: Love Me Do (72076); From Me to You (72101); She Loves You (72125); Roll Over Beethoven (72133); All My Lovin' (72144); and Sie Liebt Dich (72162), shown as "Die Beatles." It is also possible that this list is incomplete.

Early Canadian albums are significantly different than U.S. ones. Canada's first album was Beatlemania (Capitol 6051), issued in November 1963. The second Canadian LP, Twist and Shout (Capitol 6054), came out in November 1964. Both simply shuffled around tracks from their British albums.

The third Canadian album, Long Tall Sally, came out as The Beatles' Second Album in the U.S. Obviously, Capitol wouldn't use "Second" for their third LP here. (As in the States, Capitol's LP count conveniently ignored Vee Jay's 1963 LP Introducing the Beatles – their very first one.

From Beatles '65 forward, U.S. and Canadian albums are nearly identical.

All Beatles albums through Rubber Soul were originally released in mono only. Stereo collectors should seek out the early UK stereo albums. From the UK's With The Beatles, they contain limited true stereo, whereas the compact discs are still only in mono. In addition, UK albums appear better-produced. Those recordings offer a more authentic harshness in contrast with both the Canadian and American releases, which, overall, seem to have a sweetened sound. Perhaps this was done to make the releases more palatable to the North American audience.

In states near Canada, some quantities of the first two Canadian LPs likely exist as they were brought into the U.S. by relatives and friends at the time of their release. In Canada, by contrast, those same mono albums are quite commonplace but rarely in a condition above fair.

The Vee Jay, MGM, Tollie, and Atco releases are very rare.

Reflecting in part the continuing strong market for the vinyl format, The Anthology Series, starting in 1995, was released in Canada on vinyl (three albums in each release) as was the BBC-Sessions in 1994. With availability of vinyl limited even in Canada, these items will likely escalate in value very quickly.

Beau Brummels: All Canadian originals are on Reo.

Beau-Marks: Montreal-based band. Among their earliest singles are Moonlight Party (Quality 1881) (1959), Clap Your Hands (Quality 1966) (1960), Billy Billy Went A Walkin' (Quality 1219) (1960), Classmate (Quality 1315) (1961), Dark is the Night/Stay With Me (Quality 1493) (1961), Oh Joan (Quality 1259) (1961), and Yours (Quality 1337) (1961). They had about six more Quality 45s, as well as the album The Beau-Marks (Quality 1656). Also see the Deltones.

Bell Notes: Their hits, including the 1959 smash I've Had It, came out on Reo.

Bellus, Tony: As well as on 45, Robbin' The Cradle was also issued as a 78 rpm (only in Canada) on Sparton 739, in July 1959.

Big Bob & the Dollars: Novelty group that released Gordie Howe in 1963, on Globe 500.

Big Town Boys: Capitol '60s (Swirl) release 72284, possibly the same single released on Bell in the U.S.

Black, Terry: Had several Canadian-only releases on Arc.

Bonds, Gary U.S.: His singles are on Reo.

Boone, Pat: Reo issued his earliest singles, though the later ones are on Dot, as in the U.S. See Ain't That a Shame (Reo 8027). The earliest LP releases, Dot 3012 and 3030, have covers with Dot numbers but discs with the red and yellow Quality labels. Later pressings have the usual Dot labels.

Bradfords: A Canadian group of merit with one collectible single, issued in 1964: What Are You Doing to My Friend on Capitol 723346 (swirl).

British Modbeats: Very obscure Canadian band whose album Mod Is The British Modbeats is very rare and collectible.

Brown, James: Earliest federal singles are on Delta in Canada. King 45s were issued initially on Regency but later on King itself. King LPs first appear on Regency, then later on King (medium blue label). Delta and Regency releases are all originals; however, with Regency King LPs one cannot tell an original (Regency) from a reissue (King) from just the cover. One must look at the disc itself since all have King on the covers!

Browns: The Three Bells was released on 78 rpm only in Canada (1959), with the non-photographic, U.S. style label.

Bruno, Al: Has a 1961 Canadian-only instrumental, Highland Rock/Midnight Creep, on Barry 3052.

Cash, Johnny: Earliest Sun releases are on Quality. By the late '50s, his Canadian LPs were issued first on London, with Sun numbers, and later by Capitol. Perhaps his only original Sun release in Canada is Johnny Cash Sings Hank Williams, with a Sun label and a Capitol number (91284). Note, however, the first U.S. Cash album Johnny Cash with His Hot and Blue Guitar (Sun 1220) in the U.S. came out in Canada with the same songs and back cover, but a different front cover – a full-size portrait photo with pink background. It has the Sun logo in lower right corner (Quality 1607, with a blue Quality label). Subsequent releases on Columbia appear the same as his U.S. ones. However, the earliest Columbia 78s (1959) have a 78 rpm, silver and maroon label. These were apparently not issued in the U.S.

Chanteclairs: Early U.S. R&B music on Dot is on Quality in Canada. Someday My Love is Quality 1319.

Chiefs: U.S. releases on Greenwich Records released in Canada on Quality. Apache is Quality 1726.

Clark, Dave, Five: Canadian releases are on Capitol, whereas Epic handled their U.S. catalog. Albums do have some variations, most notably Coast to Coast, a U.S. LP, that appeared here – appropriately – as Across Canada. Otherwise the two albums are identical.

Clark, Sanford: His singles appear on Reo in Canada. The Fool has two label versions on Reo 8901, one crediting only Clark and the alternate mistakenly crediting Sanford Clark and songwriter, Naomi Clark.

Clay, Chad, & His Plaid Jacquets: Canadian rock release from the early '60s, Let's Do the Twist on Worth 1362.

Coasters: Though One Kiss Led to Another appears on Regency 528, the well-known releases are on Atco.. Also see the Robins.

Cooke, Sam: Early Specialty releases appear in Canada on Delta. Keen releases were reproduced in Canada with a blue label and a black label.

Cortez, Dave "Baby": Reo issued The Happy Organ in Canada.

Craddock Kids: Had a semi-novelty, centennial release in Canada on Giant Records in 1967.

Crests: Canadian releases are on Quality.

Crowbar: Very collectible, seminal Canadian blues-rock '70s group. All their releases here are on Daffodil.

Danny & the Juniors: Early ABC-Paramount releases are on Sparton (e.g. At The Hop, Sparton 516). Their Swan release with Freddie Cannon (Twistin' All Night Long) is Quality 1369.

Darin, Bobby: We have confirmed that Atco 78s of Dream Lover and Mack the Knife (both 1959) were released only in Canada – and on the later more scarce black and silver label. Darin's Capitol releases resemble U.S. releases.

Davis, Spencer, Group: Several Canadian releases appear on Stone – a subsidiary of the shadow label Sparton (I'm A Man is Stone 705).

Day, Bobby: Canadian releases of the '50s are on Regency.

Deltones: Original name used by the Beau-Marks (see their section). Released Moonlight Party on Quality 1881 in 1959.

Doo, Dicky, & the Don'ts: U.S. Swan releases are on Quality.

Diddley, Bo: Original Checker releases appear on Reo in Canada (Walkin' and Talkin' is Reo 8491).

Doggett, Bill: U.S. Regency releases appear on Regency in Canada (green label).

Domino, Fats: Most Domino singles, and all of his albums, were released on Imperial, though shown as manufactured by London Records. Some of the early singles are on Reo here, both 45s and 78s. Some Reo releases are So Long (Reo 8108), My Blue Heaven (Reo 8095), Don't You Know (Reo 8010), Ain't It a Shame (Reo 8026), Poor Me (Reo 8061), Bo Weevil (Reo 8080) and Blueberry Hill (Reo 8117). The earliest Canadian singles are therefore clearly identifiable as on Reo. After those few, all subsequent Fats Domino releases are on Imperial in Canada. Some of the forenamed Reo singles were reissued on Imperial.

Donovon: Canadian releases are on Pye instead of Hickory. Earliest LPs and singles were released only in Canada. Several reissues on Marble Arch appeared in the late '60s or early '70s.

Dove, Ronnie: Diamond releases appear in Canada on Apex.

Downchild Blues Band: Quality blues band in the Chicago style whose releases are primarily on Attic Records.

Drake, Charlie: The 1961 Australian novelty, My Boomerang Won't Come Back came out in Canada on Capitol 72015. The single was apparently never released with the "blue in the face" variant, as in the U.S. Interestingly, the 1961 yellow swirl release was subsequently replaced with a purple label reissue (similar to the '50s style but with the dome on the side) with the same longer time (3:36) and the "black in the face" lyrics.

This single, with the absence of any expurgated version and the re-release of the same potentially offending lyrics later, reflects an interesting cultural difference between the two countries. Canadians then, and now but perhaps to a lesser extent, are more oblivious to such racial sensitivities. The failure to alter the original release might have been based on commercial concerns of the day. Releasing the same song some time later without the modification when no extra cost was likely involved seems incredible today.

Drifters: Early Canadian releases of Atlantic releases are on Quality.

Dynatones: This one-hit-wonder band had Steel Guitar Rag (Bomarc 300), released in Canada on Quality 1918.

Eddy, Duane: Most '50s releases (Rebel Rouser, etc.) are on Reo. On the Twangy Guitar LP (Reo 601) from 1958 Duane has eight tracks. Those after 1960 resemble U.S. releases.

Elegants: Canadian Little Star is Sparton 620, both 45 and 78.

Esquires: Canadian group that had a few high-quality Columbia singles here. A U.S. 1966 single, It's a Dirty Shame/Love Hides a Multitude of Sins (Columbia 43815) couples their two major Canadian hit singles, originally issued separately here on Columbia. Both of the original Canadian singles are very scarce.

Everly Brothers: All Cadence releases came out in Canada on Apex. Warner Bros. records are no different than U.S. issues.

Fabian: Earliest LPs have covers showing Chancellor but first pressings have Reo discs inside.

Filane, Cosmo: Has a Canadian-only release, My Girl on Chateau 109.

Five Man Electrical Band: An earlier assemblage of this group performed and released records as the Staccatos. As with the better known Five Man Electrical Band, the Staccatos' material was mostly written by Les Emmerson, the spiritual force behind both bands. Records by the Staccatos (on Capitol) are rare and very collectible.

Flamingos: All releases are on Reo. I Only Have Eyes For You (Reo 8377), with the Goodnight flip, also came out on 78 rpm. This pairing is the rarer of two releases in the U.S.

Foundations: Canadian releases are on the blue Pye label, as opposed to Uni.

Freddie & the Dreamers: Original Canadian Capitol album – identical to the UK release – was never released in the U.S. Most of the singles missing, especially Just For You, turned up later in the States on a "Greatest Hits" compilation.

Freeman, Bobby: All U.S. Josie singles appeared in Canada on Jubilee – his U.S. LP label and Josie's parent company. We do not yet know of any Canadian LPs by Freeman, but if any exist they are likely on Jubilee. Two of his 1958 hits, Do You Want to Dance and Betty Lou Got a New Pair of Shoes, came out in Canada on 78s. We have yet to verify U.S. 78s of either.

Gainsbourg, Serge, & Jane Birkin: This French duo topped the Canadian charts in 1969 with Je T'Aime ... Moi Non Plus, released in the U.S. and Canada on Fontana. Gainsbourg has top billing on that one, at least in Canada. Reissued in 1974 in Germany (Warner Bros. 16447), and possibly in the U.S. also. On the '74 issue, Birkin gets top billing. Records has the U.S. Fontana release under Jane Birkin & Serge Gainsbourg.

Glencoves: Hootenanny/It's Sister Ginny's Turn to Throw the Bone, a U.S. hit on Select, came out on Joy 724 in Canada.

Grammer, Billy: In Canada, Monument issued a 78 of Gotta Travel On. Don't know yet whether this 1959 hit came on 78 in the U.S.

Griffith, Bobby G.: Released Give My Love to Lady Canada on Badger 005.

Guess Who: The nucleus of this famous Canadian group first recorded as Chad Allen and the Expressions, though they got very little air play. Later, in response to disc jockeys who had refused to play their records, the group's singles were sent to radio stations with the credit simply reading "Guess Who?" The lack of a traditional artist credit was meant to be taken literally since their previous identification as a lowly Canadian group resulted in them being virtually ignored by Canada's media.

The band wanted to tease dee jays, hoping to make them curious enough to play the record – without identifying the band as Canadian. Ironically, the band eventually adopted this jocular name as its own.

Early Canadian singles are on Quality, and a collection of the earliest singles are found on The Guess Who? Super Golden Oldies (Birchmount BM 568), a must-have LP for this group's fans.

As in the States, RCA had the band's later hit singles and albums in Canada, followed by releases on Nimbus 9.

A 1978 Canadian release on Aquarius crediting "Guess Who," with a similar style to the real Guess Who, appears to feature a completely different set of members.

Hames Sisters: Obscure female group with I Promise/Tell Me The Story of Love on Chateau 102 and One Song/I Smell Something Burning (Chateau 110).

Harris, Rolf: Australian recording My Boomerang Won't Come Back and LP came out on Capitol. In the U.S., both are on Epic. LP has a different front cover design in Canada – a blue background and different photograph.

Harris, Wynonie: Canadian releases appear on several labels. Good Rockin' Tonight is on Maple Leaf 26-104. Other known releases appear on the Quality label.

Haunted: Montreal-based band whose Canadian releases are on Transworld with up to two album releases. These releases are very rare and quite expensive – especially recordings with One Two Five.

Hawkins, Ronnie: Ever-rockin' Ronnie released hits after the "Hawks" became The Band (Down In The Valley/Home From The Forest on Hawk 302). Roulette albums and singles from the '50s are more common in Canada than in the U.S. and will likely sell for less. The earliest Hawkins release is a Quality single, before the Roulette issues.

Hayes, Bill: Novelty hit The Ballad of Davy Crockett (Cadence) is on Apex 76057.

Hepburn, Kenny: Canada's Duane Eddy clone. Included on the LP Twangy Guitar (Arc 510), mentioned under Duane Eddy.

Herman's Hermits: Early singles in Canada are on Capitol, but their albums turned up on Quality. U.S. releases are on MGM.

Hervey, Pat: Brenda Lee-type rock singer from the Maritimes who had a hit on Chateau 103, Mr. Heartache (white label). Also there is A Mother's Love/Heaven For A While, on Chateau 149.

Honeycombs: All Canadian releases are on orange Pye label. U.S. issues are on Interphon.

Horton, Johnny: Only in Canada did Battle of New Orleans come out on a maroon and silver Columbia 78.

Hot Toddys: Before their name changed to the Rockin' Rebels, they had one Canadian-only release, Rockin' Crickets on Barrel 602. There are several subsequent U.S. releases of this track.

Hunter, Ivory Joe: MGM releases are virtually identical to U.S. ones. Atlantic discs (e.g. Since I Met You Baby) are on Quality, with Atlantic acknowledged.

Jackson, Mahalia: It appears Columbia releases were released in Canada with similar selection numbers and sleeves. One Canadian variant is Sparton C33-4906, a Canadian version of the U.S. Colortone album, released in both countries, probably in the early '70s.

John, Little Willie: Early Canadian releases are on Delta.

Johnny & the Hurricanes: Canadian releases are on Barry.

Joslin & Fry: Eastern Ontario male/female duo band with one vinyl album release on JM 83133.

Kensington Market: Along with the single I Would Be the One (Warner Bros. 7221), with its picture sleeve, this band had two albums on Warner Bros. Both are sought after: Avenue Road (1754) and Aardvark (1780). Releases before Warner Bros. – if any exist – would be extremely rare. Warner Bros. releases are relatively common, although higher grade ones are rare.

King Biscuit Boy: Blues by a very collectible '60s-'70s Canadian band. Most of their releases are on Daffodil.

Kingsmen: Original Canadian releases of The Kingsmen in Person (three volumes) are on Reo. Canadian reissues of LPs are on Wand, as in the U.S. Only Reo issues are true originals here.

Kinks: Originals of earlier releases are on the orange Pye label, and later on the blue Pye label.

Knight, Richie & the Mid-Knights: Canadian one-hit rock wonder (Charlena Arc 1028).

Knox, Buddy: Canadian Party Doll and Hula Love (76179) are on Apex. The Buddy Knox LP on Point 120 is a reissue of an Apex LP, issued about the same time as the Apex singles.

Kramer, Billy J., & the Dakotas: All discs are on Capitol, not Imperial. The earliest single and album, Do You Want To Know a Secret, were released in Canada only on Capitol.

Kuban, Bob, & the In-Men: Their hit The Cheater (with Walter Scott on flip) was released in Canada on Barry 3394.

Lane, Robbie, & the Disciples: Toronto rock band's singles are on Hawk. An LP, It's Happening, (1966) is on Capitol 6182.

Larks: All Canadian releases are on Reo.

Lee, Larry, & the Leesures: Just a Little Too Much/Yes Tonight Josephine was issued on Canatal 604, Stood Up on Tamarac and the LP Club Date with Larry Lee on Columbia 114.

Left Banke: Original LP releases are on Mercury (flat black label with silver lettering) and later pressings are on Smash. Originals can only be distinguished by disc itself, not the sleeve, which indicates Smash.

Les Sultans: Francophone group on Teledisc 24.

Lewis, Jerry Lee: U.S. Sun releases came out on Quality.

Lightfoot, Gordon: Early experimental country releases are on Chateau. Lightfoot bought back and destroyed most copies. These little-known releases are very rare. They include: Negotiations/It's Too Late, He Wins (Chateau 148), Remember Me, I'm The One (Chateau 142) and I'll Meet you In Michoocan (Chateau 152).

Little Caesar & the Consuls: Toronto-based '60s band had one significant hit (My Girl) Sloopy, Red Leaf 612, (U.S. Mala 312) – vaguely similar to subsequent McCoys' version. Also released were Little Heartbreaker (Tamarac 202) and If (Columbia 629). All these singles are highly collectible. There is also an LP released on Maple Leaf (number unknown).

Little Richard: First few Specialty U.S. singles came out in Canada on Regency, with acknowledgment to Specialty. Early albums have U.S. covers (no reference made to Canada) with the early green/silver Regency label. Later covers were printed in Canada (and identified as such) with the green/silver labels, then again with the ensuing (blue and black) label design. Subsequent U.S. releases on other labels were virtually identical in Canada.

Lords of London: A quality band, known for live performances, with singles Cornflakes and Ice Cream (Apex 77054) 1967, Popcorn Man (Apex 77068) and Candy Rainbow (Apex 77074). All are considered very scarce.

Lowe, Jim: Earliest Canadian releases, including Green Door are on Reo. Later releases are on Dot with corresponding U.S. numbers.

Luke & the Apostles: Worthy late '60s band with two 1967 singles, Been Burnt and You Make Me High (labels and numbers not yet known).

Lymon, Frankie, & the Teenagers: U.S. Gee releases appear in Canada on Apex. See I Want You (Apex 76088), I Promise to Remember (Apex 76095), ABC's of Love (Apex 76101), I'm Not a Juvenile Delinquent (Apex 76109), Little Girl (Apex 76214), Footsteps (Apex 76237), Mama Don't Allow It (Apex 76285), Only Way to Love (Apex 76340), No Matter What You've Done (Apex 76427). Also, crediting only the Teenagers: Miracle in the Rain (Apex 76144) and Everything to Me (Apex 76218).

Mandala: First fronted by George Oliver then later by Roy Kenner, Mandala had two hits, Opportunity and Lovitis. The album The Soul Crusade of the Mandala on Atlantic was also released in the U.S.

Mann, Manfred: First album, on Ascot in the U.S., is on Capitol in Canada. Canadian pressing, like the UK original, includes Smokestack Lightning as the lead track. On Ascot issue, the tracks are adjusted to feature Do Wah Diddy Diddy.

Marshmallow Soup Group: Obscure eastern Ontario bar band had at least one single on RCA (75-1014), I Want Candy.

Mason, Dutch: Canadian blues band leader whose releases appear in Canada on Attic.

McCord, Bob, & the Vibrations: Ontario band featuring disc jockey Bob McCord and backup group, had one hit, I Missed My Year. Label and number not yet known for this rare single.

McKenna Medelson Mainline: Bluesy rock group with one album on Liberty 583251, Stink, relatively common in Ontario. An earlier album, McKenna Medelson Blues, on Paragon 15 is extremely rare and very sought after.

McPhatter, Clyde: Upon leaving the Drifters in 1956, his Canadian releases are on Quality (Atlantic Series).

Midnighters: Obscure rock and roll instrumental group. Singles released on Barry including Slow Walk (Barry 3028).

Monkees: LPs and singles came out here on RCA rather than Colgems.

Moody Blues: Early albums are on London.

Motherlode: Significant '60s Canadian recording group.

Mungo Jerry: Canadian releases are on Pye (blue label).

Murray, Anne: Earliest Canadian-only releases are on Arc, including both the single and LP What About Me (Arc 782).

Music Machine: On Original Sound in the U.S., their label here was Reo.

Nelson, Ricky: All his earliest singles and LPs are as in the U.S. Interestingly, Ricky's debut album came out here with a European-style flimsy stock cover.

Nucleus: Experimental psychedelic band with one Mainstream album, Communication.

Ocean: This Canadian folk group's hit Put Your Hand in the Hand is on Yorkville. Later U.S. releases were on Kama Sutra.

Owen, Reg: Manhattan Spiritual (1958) is on Jubilee 5005.

Paupers: In 1967, this Canadian group released the Magic People LP on Verve, both in the U.S. and Canada. Before that was at least one Canadian-only Verve single, If I Called You By Some Name (Verve/Folkways 5033). Also, from the Magic People album is the single Simple Deed (Verve/Folkways 5043). The exclusively Canadian singles are very scarce.

Pagliaro, Michael: Good Quebec-based rocker (anglophone and francophone vocals) with releases on RCA.

Parsons, Bill: (Bobby Bare) The 1958 U.S. Fraternity hit, All American Boy came out on Reo (8320) in Canada.

Playmates: Original Roulette U.S. releases appear in Canada on Apex.

Presley, Elvis:

The releases of Elvis in Canada rival British Invasion releases in terms of variation over the years. The following listings attempt to chronicle the most important differences. For ease in reference the descriptions are broken down into the various release formats.

Sun Singles: 78 rpm:

There are no verified equivalents to Sun releases in Canada, other than the RCA Victor reissues. If there were any Sun recordings here, they would have been on Quality, who picked up Johnny Ace's Pledging My Love, for example. Given the still regional nature of the popularity of Elvis in 1954 and '55, this seems unlikely.

RCA Singles: 78 rpm:

From Mystery Train (RCA 20-6357) to One Night there are equivalent Canadian releases to U.S. releases. In addition, Mean Woman Blues (20-7066) came out only in Canada, and Blue Suede Shoes is numbered 20-6492 instead of 20-6636, the U.S. number. There is no U.S. 78 or 45 release of RCA 6492, by Elvis or any other artist. This number (6492) would have been used about six months before 6636.

Sources indicate Carl Perkins recorded Blue Suede Shoes in late 1955, which came out (Sun 234) January 1, 1956. Presley recorded his version January 30, 1956, just 20 days after recording Heartbreak Hotel. It is well-known that, as a favor to Perkins, Presley delayed his Blue Suede Shoes until September 1956 in the U.S., but took no steps to stop its release in Canada, where it would not compete with the Perkins single. Thus, the Canadian release of Blue Suede Shoes was six months earlier than the U.S. single.

The Canadian 78s up to One Night have the small lithographic dog, "Nipper," at the top and a flat black colouring unlike the colour-photographic dog on U.S. labels. In Canada, on A Big Hunk of Love and I Need Your Love Tonight, the U.S. style label (with photographic dog) is used. Neither of these two 1959 Canadian issues came out in the U.S. on 78 rpm.

As for Canadian white label promo releases of Elvis 78s, none are known to exist.

Finally, it is possible that one of the early 78s came out with a flat, pale blue label. No such disc has been verified yet; however, some 45s and one LP were made with that blue label.

RCA Singles: 45 rpm:

Presley 45s present similar differences in pressings between the two countries. First, a lithographic – as opposed to photographic – dog is used until A Big Hunk of Love (1959). The earliest lithographic dog labels are a pale blue. We can confirm the following as blue label releases: That's All Right (47-6380), Heartbreak Hotel (47-6420), I Want You, I Need You, I Love You (47-6540), and Don't Be Cruel (47-6604). In mid-'56, all issues became flat black.

The blue label releases were in production only for a short period, as little as one week we're told. Whatever the period these blue label versions are extremely rare and are valued higher than the flat black issues.

Several white label Canadian "prevue" releases exist. These are in demand by U.S. collectors, mainly due to the absence of a U.S. equivalent.

The 78 of Blue Suede Shoes (20-6492) has not been verified on a Canadian 45. In 1959, however, it was issued as a Gold Standard, matching the U.S. re-release. The Canadian 78 Mean Woman Blues is also not known to exist on an equivalent 45 release.

Between 1959 and circa-'64, U.S. and Canadian 45s are virtually identical with a photographic dog on top. In 1964-'65, the U.S. switched to a photographic "dog on side" format but the "dog on top" remained in use in Canada for another year or so.

Canadian RCA 45s were always devoid of any horizontal line, making this U.S. distinguishing feature a non-issue for Canadian releases.

With later 45s there are a myriad of small differences that will be outlined in later editions. As a general rule, however, the releases in each country are similar.

RCA Extended Plays:

No material differences other than the above described label design changes are presently known.

RCA Long Plays:

A lengthy detailed discussion of the multi-faceted differences in U.S. and Canadian LPs would be too long this essay., though the following are major factors relating to the identification of first pressings of the earliest LPs. As with the 78s and 45s, a lithographic – not photographic – dog is used in Canada from Elvis Presley (LPM 1254) through Elvis` Golden Records Vol 2 (LPM 2075). After that, the photographic dog label is used. A blue label pressing of Elvis Presley (LPM 1254) has now been verified.

We have yet to verify a Canadian version of the U.S. 1957 Elvis' Christmas Album (LOC 1035). It appears that the red slicks were re-numbered, with "LPM-1951" covering "LOC-1035," and the reference to the bonus photos covered with "Best Wishes." It is not clear whether this album was available in December 1957, but if so why does it have the number used a full year later the U.S.? The later blue winter scene cover with LPM 1951 contains the exact same disc. Since the red cover version has LPM 1951 (a 1958 U.S. number) it seems likely it was used in 1958 until it was replaced with the new blue cover version.

Most of the distinguishing features of first pressings, such sd blue lettering on LPM 1707 or nonprint on back of LPM 2075, are carried into Canadian releases for use today as identification.

With respect to distinguishing the LP issues from 1959 until 1968, when the introduction of the orange labels occurred, refer to the RCA Victor section in this chapter for comments on distinguishing various Canadian originals.

Price, Lloyd: Like most ABC-Paramount acts, his Canadian releases are on Sparton.

Quiet Jungle: Late '60s rock band known for Ship of Dreams on Yorktown 45004.

Rankine, Douglas, & The Secrets: Novelty 1966 one hit wonder band with Clear the Track Here Comes Shark (RCA 3384). Eddie Shark was a well-known hockey player in Canada.

Rebels/Rockin' Rebels: Canadian band whose hit Wild Weekend (on Swan in the U.S.) was released here on Reo 8692. The group was previously known as the Hot-Toddys, who had Rockin' Crickets/Shakin' on Barrell 602. On the Wild Weekend LP (Reo 660), the front cover and disc are Reo, but the back cover is taken from the Swan LP. See also the Hot Toddys.

Red Les and Bill: Canadian only release Run Boy Run on Chateau 103.

Revere, Paul and the Raiders: Rare In the Beginning album (U.S. Jerden) issued here on Quality.

Righteous Brothers: The Canadian LP, You've Lost That Lovin' Feeling, unlike the U.S. version, has a textured cover. Only in Canada was this cover issued.

Riley, Jeannie C.: U.S. releases on Plantation appeared initially in Canada on Reo, with reissues later on Plantation. Only the Reos are originals.

Rivieras: Early releases are on Delta. Our California Sun (Delta 3211) has the more common flip, HB Goose Step.

Robins: Canadian pre-Coasters releases are on Quality.

Rolling Stones: London had all Stones UK singles in Canada: Time Is on My Side, It's All Over Now and Route 66 (not a U.S. single), etc. Original 1963 singles labels are blue with silver lettering replaced with orange/white in 1964 (U.S. singles are on blue and white label). The first orange and white label design release is Get off of My Cloud.

In late 1963 an EP with a picture sleeve was released only in Canada (London DFE 8590). The paper picture sleeve shows the original five members. This EP, especially with picture sleeve intact, is very rare.

We can now also confirm a 1971 Canadian only LP release, Stone Age (London NPS. 6), which includes very early releases, and later hits, like As Tears Go By. This LP follows Get Yer Ya-Ya's Out (London NPS. 5), from 1970. The cover for Stone Age has not yet been verified. Any further information on this release would be greatly appreciated

Other than Hot Rocks (London 1971), all new Rolling Stone releases are on the bands' own label, beginning with Sticky Fingers..

Rydell, Bobby: The earlier 45s and LPs are on Barry as opposed to Cameo.

Sarne, Mike: Minor British Invasion hit Come Outside, released only in Canada (Capitol 72043).

Scott, Jack: Singles on 78 rpm (1958) of My True Love (Carlton 462) seem to have been released only in Canada. U.S. and Canadian releases are otherwise fairly identical. Albums are probably less scarce in Canada.

Searchers: All original releases are on Pye (orange label). They are on Kapp in the U.S.

Shafto, Bobby: English Invasion obscurity whose U.S. Rust releases appear on Capitol (e.g. She's My Girl, yellow swirl 72170).

Shirelles: U.S. Scepter singles were released on Reo, such as Will You Love Me Tomorrow (Reo 8531).

Sinners: Had one novelty/political satire hit, Go Go Trudeau, in 1968 (Jupiter 1138).

Smith, Eugene: Blues-oriented vocalist with usually good backup, a.k.a. the "warm-up band" (Rock By Day Tembo 8524 released in 1985).

Smith, Grant, and the Power: Excellent band with singles circa 1966, Keep On Running and Her Own Life. See album release on Boo 6802 (manufactured by Rebel Records). This album and any known singles are very desirable.

Staccatos: This band apparently had some singles (no details or confirmation available yet) on Allied before signing with Capitol. Among their Captiol issues are Half Past Midnight/Weatherman (swirl) 72453; It's a Long Way Home; Let's Run Away, and probably others.

Stampeders: '70s pop-rock Canadian group with Wild Eyes and several other singles, on MWC (Music World Creations).

Stitch N' Tyme: Maritimes band who toured central Canada primarily as a bar band. Got to Get You Into My Life (Beatles song) was their big hit in 1967. On Yorkville (45001). All are scarce and in demand.

Talkabouts: The 1959 single Sweet Lovin' Baby was released on 78 in Canada, as well as on 45 (Regency 792).

Tanega, Norma: 1966 New Voice recordings, including the single and album Walkin My Cat Named Dog, are on Reo.

Teddy Bears: The 1958 Dore single To Know Him Is To Love Him was apparently released on both 78 and 45 in Canada.

Thomas, David Clayton: The U.S. Decca album erroneously hyphenates his middle and surname: "Clayton-Thomas." Since then, many publications have repeated the blunder.

See his section in Records for a complete listing of his early releases, both Canadian and U.S.

One interesting LP, Back on the Street Again (Pickwick 3245), has one side by Thomas and one by Linda Ronstadt and the Stone

Poneys. It includes most of the mid-'60s Red Leaf and Roman label A-sides.

Tom, Jim & Garth: Folk releases in the early '60s (Something to Sing About, Melborne 3222).

Torok, Mitchell: Caribbean/Hootchy Kootchy Henry, on Reo 8403, acknowledges a "Radio Records USA" recording. The credit should have been made to Guyden. (The Abbott original has a different flip side.)

Townsmen: Fine Ottawa-based group with a few releases, the labels and numbers of which we do not yet know.

Travis & Bob: The 45s and 78s of Tell Her No were released in Canada on Barrell. No similar U.S. 78 has been verified.

Ugly Ducklings: Good '60s blues/rock band who issued several discs in Canada. First on Yorktown 45001 (Nothin'/I Can Tell) then 45003 (Just in Case You Wonder). Another Yorktown (45013) issue is Gaslight. There's a variant release of Just in Case You Wonder with same number but a slightly different title: Just in Case You're Wondering. The altered title is obviously an error and may be the original since the song actually mentions "wonder," not "wondering." Their one known album, Somewhere Outside (Yorktown 50001) contains above hits, except Gaslight.

Valens, Richie: Donna was released on a 78 in Canada (1959). It appears this variant may have been mainly distributed in and about the Province of Quebec, and, in particular, Montreal. With the Apex label based in Lachine (northern Quebec), one is unlikely to unearth this disc elsewhere in Canada.

Veltri, Rudy (and the Tornadoes): Obscure Canadian artist with one Chateau single (105), Waterfalls of Love/Lost Memories.

Virtues: Sparton issued their 1958 Guitar Boogie Shuffle here, on both 45 and 78 rpm.

Vogues: Co-Ed LP You're The One in Canada is Barry 343. Later releases on Reprise in 1968 are the same as in U.S. Canadian label for Co-Ed Five O'Clock World is not yet known but is very likely Barry.

Wallis, Ruth: Early singles are on Maple Leaf with acknowledgment of Deluxe, and (subsequently) on the usual flat black Deluxe label.

Warwick, Dionne: Original releases were on Barry with the covers printed in U.S., referring to Scepter Records.

Wilcox, David: Blues rocker with early releases on Freedom, and later on Capitol.

Williams, Larry: Specialty U.S. releases appear on Regency.

Wray, Link, and the Raymen: Rumble/The Swag (Cadence 1347) appears in Canada on Apex 76270. Rawhide is on Epic 9300 (same as U.S.). Later Swan releases are on Quality (Jack the Ripper, Quality 1536).

Wright, Priscilla: Artist from London, Ont. U.S. Unique discs are on Sparton here (Man in the Raincoat, Sparton 4-147).

Yardbirds: Earliest releases – singles and at least one LP – are on Capitol. Heartful of Soul (Capitol 6139) LP is now very rare. Capitol singles are Heartful of Soul (Capitol 72274), I'm a Man (Capitol 72300) and Little Games (Capitol 72467). Later releases are on Epic.

Yemm and the Yemen: British Invasion group with one minor hit (Capitol 72428) Black is the Night (Canadian only).

Youngbloods: Their 1969 album, orange in the States, is on RCA's black label here.

Zombies: Early singles are on Parrot: She's Not There (Parrot 9695) and Tell Her No (Parrot 9723). LPs not yet known. Later dics, like Time of the Season, appear to be on Date, as in the U.S.

In Conclusion ...

Compiling a guide to Canadian releases is a mammoth task and not likely to ever be complete. Still, in each new edition of this book, new and revised information will be found.

Every attempt to ensure accuracy has been made, but the intent here is merely to provide guidance. As a rule, Canadian releases of U.S. groups will have about the same value as the U.S. pressings of the same discs. But there are many exceptions.

For many U.S. collectors, Canadian releases will appear to have drab labels (especially the shadow companies) which may depreciate their value. However, condition and playability of these discs will often be better than records made in the states, where a poorer, more brittle vinyl was often used.

For collectors who seek the cleanest possible original playing copy, the Canadian release will almost always, grade for grade, be superior. A G+ Canadian 45 will often play (but not appear) at a VG+ grade. This effect results from, in most cases, a higher grade of vinyl. Truly worn out singles, especially 78s, with telltale yellow grooves, are nearly non-existent in Canadian releases and a medium grade 78 (G+ or higher) will play with amazing clarity. Canadian LPs also will perform exceptionally well. If the only copy available is a Canadian one, between 1950 and 1970, and the grade is somewhat lower than you normally prefer, it may still be worth acquiring the item if it is Canadian.

Scarcity varies widely as well. For example: Paul Anka's '50s releases are more common in Canada than in the U.S., especially near Ottawa, his hometown; and Ronnie Hawkins' Roulette releases are more common in Canada.

Rhythm & Blues recordings, however, will be much scarcer in Canada.

Similarly, one would expect Canadian-only releases to be rarer on both sides of the border (and that is true), but demand will clearly be less in the U.S. – at least for now.

As releases are recorded in this chapter, and Records itself, and collectors become more aware of what was released and can be obtained, demand will increase from U.S. collectors, and even Canadian ones, many of whom do not know the Canadian independent releases in their own country. This is likely due to poor distribution and the localized nature of many releases.

In the continuing effort to expand on and improve on the information available in this feature, I am greatly in debt to several collectors I have had the fortune to meet with recently. I wish to thank Mike Warren of Toronto, and especially Greg Scofield of Montreal, whose encyclopedic knowledge of Canadian releases helped resolve many unanswered questions of previous editions. Please remember corrections and suggestions are always welcomed.
